Best Wishes to the Newlyweds!

Margaret, Tony Honeymooning Aboard Yacht

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, sailed westward this afternoon for their honeymoon aboard the Royal yacht Britannia after their wedding in Westminster Abbey amid unforgettable panoply.

They were 47 minutes late arriving at the pier where the Royal barge took them to the Britannia, anchored in the Thames.

The yacht, with her deep blue hull and white superstructure, was a picture as she headed toward the sea at 5.33 p.m. (9.33 a.m., PDT) to a raucous salute of horns, whistles and sirens from other ships in the river.

Their departure climaxed a memorable day in which, with ancient chivalry and religious solemnity, the smiling Princess was married to her commoner sweetheart.

As millions watched, the "prettiest maiden aunt in the Commonwealth," long the most publicized girl in the world, softly exchanged vows with the 30-year-old society photographer, now himself the cynosure of all cameras.

One of the largest gatherings of the Royal Family and associated families of Europe was in historic old Westminster Abbey for an hour-long ceremony summing up all of Britain's yesterdays.

All the panoply of a great ceremonial occasion, for as the Queen and the Queen long a British speciality, was packed into the scene as "Margaret Rose" — responding to the name she spurned as a child—was united "till death do us part" with Antony Charles Robert Armstrong-Jones.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, intoned the words the world had been waiting for, enjoining the couple to live in "perfect love and peace together," as the groom placed on the bride's finger a wedding ring made from the same nugget of gold as was used for rings worn by the Queen and the Queen Mother.

Carnival Mood Prevails

London — and Britain — was in carnival mood for the fairy-tale wedding.

Prime ministers of the Commonwealth suspended deliberations and watched the ceremony from special stalls in the Abbey.

The wedding had everything — a beautiful princess in a remarkably simple white organza gown with diamond diadem and long train, carrying a bouquet of white orchids; the peal of bells, the sonorous swell of organ music, the tinkling jingle of breastplates as the escort of the household cavalry bobbed down the processional way to the Abbey; excited spectators along the route jumping up and down to catch a sight of the glass coach bearing Margaret and Prince Philip who gave the bride away.

Margaret looked solemn as she stood beside her smiling brother-in-law, her arm tucked under his right arm. The duke, with a large pink carnation in his buttonhole, placed his hand over his chest, thumb tucked under his coat.

There was almost a surfeit of spectacle — the Queen Mother in blue dress and stole edged with honey-colored mink; the eight little bridesmaids, demure in organza; the crowds lined in Parliament Square, beneath the spiky Gothic columns of the Mother of Parliaments; the zebra-striped awning over the entrance to the Abbey; the Prince of Wales in court dress, with ruffles and kilt, straining forward to watch his aunt walk down the aisle; Princess Anne in a replica of Princess Margaret's first evening dress.

Perfect spring weather blessed the biggest royal occasion since the Coronation.

The Queen Mother bit her lip and wept softly through most of the ceremony.

The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the medieval magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,068 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

It came as she pledged herself to Armstrong-Jones.

"For better or worse," intoned the archbishop.

No response could be heard in the abbey.

"For better or worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual.

Groom Speaks Up Loudly

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before Dr. Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11.45 a.m. (3.45 a.m. PDT).

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

The bride and groom appeared relaxed and happy as they rode separately through the cheering throngs to the Abbey. Armstrong-Jones received an especially loud cheer upon his arrival.

A fanfare of trumpets blared out as the Princess entered the Abbey and walked down the long nave on a rich blue carpet. Prince Philip whispered to her as they began the long walk to the altar.

26 KILLED, 220 INJURED

Twisters Take Heavy Toll

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP)—Ugly black tornadoes killed 26 persons and injured about 220 in slashing attacks at Oklahoma Thursday night and today.

A twister destroyed 12 houses, two churches and the post office in the small community of Menifee this morning. A woman was killed and 20 persons were hurt.

Torrential rains followed the twisters and hampered rescue efforts. Most of the affected areas were without power and communications.

Eleven victims were counted in this eastern Oklahoma college town and officials feared they would find more bodies under the rubble today. The best estimate of injured, taken to hospitals in several towns, was about 75.

U.S. WANTS 'FULL FACTS'

(See Page 16)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally asked Russia today for the "full facts" behind Soviet Premier Khrushchev's boast that an American aircraft was shot down over Soviet territory on Sunday.

The note asked especially that the United States be informed "of the fate of the pilot" of the aircraft.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today the 1960 civil rights bill today to new protection for the voting rights of Negroes.

In a statement Eisenhower called the act "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights" although Congress failed to include some of his recommendations.

The heart of the measure is a new procedure to help Negroes, or other minorities, fight discrimination against them at the ballot box.

WIRE BRIEFS

Dawson Faces Flood

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)—A major flood today threatened this former gold rush city, 1,300 miles northwest of Edmonton. Residents prayed that a dike constructed last summer would hold off the rising waters.

Pearson Hopeful

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Pearson said today that despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's new outburst there are still good prospects of easing world tensions at the summit meeting in Paris. Russia and the West are getting close to some agreement on limiting nuclear tests, Mr. Pearson told a press conference.

They Sat, Stood—And Squatted

City hotel lobbies played to full houses today as Victorians and visitors sat, stood and squatted to watch the marriage of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones on television.

Every seat in a special watching room at the Empress Hotel was occupied and watchers stood shoulder-to-shoulder to watch the ceremony. Many of the viewers were delegates and wives attending the 15th annual Olympic Logging Conference.

ALWAYS ATTRACTIVE, TODAY BEAUTIFUL

Fairy-Tale Setting For Real Princess

By DINAH KERR

(London Daily Express Reporter)

(Miss Kerr was formerly a reporter on the Victoria Daily Times, where she took her training. She went to London two years ago to the Daily Express staff.)

LONDON—It was a fairy tale setting for a real life princess when London staged the wedding of the year today.

White, crimson and gold banners, with arch after arch of glowing pink roses, shimmered in the hottest sun of the year all the way down the Mall to Buckingham Palace.

Tens of thousands of people jammed the wedding route to Westminster Abbey. Many of them had slept all night in the parks and on sidewalks. But I got a fourth-row place just outside Clarence House after only a four-hour wait.

And then, at exactly 11.15 a.m., the princess came out in a sparkling glass coach. I saw a gleaming tiara, a flashing smile, a modest V neckline. Photographers never do justice to her looks. Always she is attractive. Today she was beautiful.

I could see long, tightly-fitting sleeves that came almost to her palms. There was an overwhelming impression of uncompromising plainness of design.

She may have been the most important bride of 1960 but she was certainly one of the most simply dressed.

But the big stunner was her hair. It was built up into a beehive effect under her tiara.

Nobody had been seen with such an extreme style before. And I for one would hazard that this creation by her French hairdresser Rene has been influenced by Mr. Armstrong-Jones.

With her was Prince Philip, smiling happily like anybody off to a family wedding. But the Captain's Escort of the Household Cavalry—one squadron in front of their coach and one behind—showed that this was no ordinary marriage.

This was the spectacle for which we had waited. And, like any other big state occasion in England, it was superbly stage-managed—if you except the choice of "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off" as one of the pieces played on the loud-speakers beforehand.

FILM DELAYED AS VULCAN BUCKED WINDS

Films of Princess Margaret's wedding to Antony Armstrong-Jones hit the trans-Canada microwave television network this morning almost 40 minutes later than scheduled by the CBC.

Heavy headwinds over the Atlantic were reported to be the cause for delaying the RAF Vulcan bomber assigned the task of transporting the film across the ocean to the RCAF base at St. Hubert near Montreal.

Originally the CBC had listed the telecast time at 10 Victoria time, then optimistically rescheduled it for 9.30. The wedding telecast actually started at about 10.10.

No Plea to Save Bomarc Made by Canada to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Fleming said today it would be "improper" for the Canadian government to assume that the United States will not carry out its part of the Bomarc agreement.

He was commenting in the Commons on the action of the U.S. House of Representatives Thursday in voting 377 to 3 in favor of virtually eliminating defence appropriations for the anti-aircraft missile.

Defence Minister Peakes,

asked by Paul Hellyer (L. Toronto) Trinity) whether he still has faith in the missile, said technical information now available indicates that the weapon "can be made functional."

Both ministers turned aside persistent opposition, suggesting that Canada has made representations to the U.S. congressmen and senators to have the Bomarc appropriation restored.

Mr. Fleming reminded the Commons that the Bomarc matter now is on its way to the U.S. Senate, where it was hoped the issue would be dealt with "reasonably expeditiously."

Meanwhile, "it would be improper on our part to assume that the United States government will not be in a position to carry out its side of the program."

'WE SAW PRINCESS AT HER GAYEST' FOR CENTENNIAL VISIT TO PROVINCE

Before them went the clergy of the Abbey in stately procession, with the Great Cross of the Dean of Westminster.

Behind, the bride and her escort came the eight bridesmaids. Princess Anne was the last of the group.

The girls, aged six to 12, wore simple floor-length dresses in a white organza like that of the bridal gown.

Armstrong-Jones, with his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliat, was waiting for the Princess. He sat on the ground floor level of the Abbey, laughing and even joking until the moment Margaret arrived. Then he became serious but as Margaret reached him he flashed her a winning smile.

She smiled back.

Stepping to her side, Tony walked with her, up the short flight of steps to the pink-cushioned kneeling benches.

The dean of Westminster, Dr. E. S. Abbot, began the service: "Dearly beloved, we are gathered here in the sight of God and in the face of this congregation to join together this man and this woman in holy matrimony."

The dean then asked the traditional question — whether anyone knew cause why the marriage should not take place.

There was a silence, then the Archbishop of Canterbury stepped forward to ask:

"Anthony Charles Robert, wilt thou have this woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony?"

In the Great Abbey, the archbishop's usually deep, booming voice was almost lost.

"Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor, and keep her, in sickness and in health, and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her, so long as you both shall live?"

Tony's "I will" came on top of the archbishop's last word.

Then—"Margaret Rose, wilt thou have this man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the Holy estate of matrimony?"

"Wilt thou obey him, and serve him, love, honor and keep him, in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all other, keep thee only unto him, so long as ye both shall live?"

Softly the Princess responded: "I will."

Armstrong-Jones placed the wedding ring on Margaret's finger and repeated after the archbishop: "With this ring, I thee wed."

"To those whom God hath joined together," said the archbishop, "let no man put asunder."

As the newlyweds emerged from the Abbey, the throngs reacted with roaring cheers to the smiles of the 29-year-old bride and her 30-year-old husband. So jammed were the crowds that 45 ambulance squads reported 741 casualties, including 285 fainting cases.

In the glass coach, which the groom entered first after a whispered consultation with the bride, they returned to Buckingham Palace for a champagne wedding breakfast and to prepare for departure on their Caribbean honeymoon aboard the Royal yacht Britannia.

First Time Queen Preceded

For the first time on a great Royal occasion, Margaret preceded the Queen into the palace. Crowds estimated at more than 200,000 milled around the palace gates.

From thousands came the cry "We want Margaret."

When the couple came out on a balcony, another volley of cheers rose from the square below.

She was carrying her bridal bouquet. She turned to speak to her husband, then smiled and waved to the crowd.

Frantic cheers followed. Handkerchiefs and programs waved.

The Queen, the Queen Mother, Prince Philip, Princess Anne, Prince Charles and other members of the Royal Family were with the bridal pair on the balcony.

Again and again, Margaret raised her hand to return the crowd's salute. The bridesmaids, clustered around her, Armstrong-Jones also waved from time to time.

They stayed on the balcony for four minutes.

The din of cheers contrasted with the silence outside during the ceremony, as the crowds listened on portable radios and loudspeakers fixed to the palace gates. Television carried the ceremony to all Britain and to European nations as well.

Princess Margaret's wedding seemed a little closer today as we recalled the happy times she spent here with us in July, 1958—the crown of our Centenary year.

We of the press had a special meeting with her at the Empress Hotel. It was strictly off-the-record at the time.

Now we recall, with a special glow, the charming welcome she gave us, greeting each in turn with an appearance of deep enjoyment; almost as if to say:

"Oh yes, I've been waiting to meet you!"

A trick? Well, what if it was? No human being could enjoy meeting as many people as the Royal Family has to do.

As she strolled about the room, chatting with reporters, deskmen and photographers, Margaret took a cigarette from out of her dainty handbag.

Immediately a battery of expensive lighters leapt to her service. But the princess waited tactfully while Peter Loudon (then with the Times) struggled with his little book matches and finally lit the royal cigarette with hardly a tremor.

A young reporter from the B.C. interior confided that he was so enamored of Princess Margaret he would like to "take her away from it all!"

Through days of hot centenary sunshine we saw the princess at her gayest and best—excepting the Sunday morning she worshipped in Christ Church Cathedral.

Then she became a grave little figure in white, kneeling quietly in her pew, uttering the age-old responses as unselfconsciously as if she had been in any village church.

Remembering how Princess Margaret helped make our Centenary a success, we wish her joy and happiness today on this most joyous of all her days.

DINAH KERR

The Princess' appearance was the culmination of events which began when the crowds saw Prince Charles and Princess Anne stealing a peep from behind the curtains of Buckingham Palace before breakfast.

But the first official sight of the Royal Family came when Anne drove by in the first of two cars bearing the bridesmaids.

She was waving nonstop, but every now and then she looked down happily at her dress of white silk organza.

Then came Tony Armstrong-Jones with his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliat, in a limousine whose polish almost matched the glitter of the Princess' coach.

The last time I saw him—at a party—he was wearing a pale lavender shirt with bright yellow tie and dove grey lounge suit. Now he was formally itself in morning dress, and there seemed to be a nervous tension in his waves to the crowd.

Queen's Hat 'Most Elaborate'

The Queen drove with her mother and Prince Charles in the state coach. She wore a full-length turquoise dress, with magnificent diamonds on her left shoulder. Her matching hat, surmounted by two large flowers, was the most elaborate I have seen her wear.

Then, half an hour later, as we still crowded together in the Mall, we heard the Archbishop of Canterbury saying slowly and solemnly on the loudspeakers:

"I pronounce that they be man and wife together."

And all of us cheered our heads off.

There had been many comments about the Princess marrying a commoner but all those were forgotten today.

Commonwealth Accents Heard

It was obvious this was a very popular marriage for London—and for the Commonwealth as well. The Cockney and Oxford accents, which predominated in the crowds, were at times almost drowned by the drawls of Canada and the tangy voices of Australia and New Zealand.

Now the wedding is over. But London is still one big party. The pubs have been given extensions to serve late night drinks and there will be dancing in many streets.

At dusk the royal parks have been turned into one great picnic. They even have stalls selling hot dogs. That shows how far London has been willing to relax today.

For this is the first major royal occasion since the war which has not taken place in the shadow of austerity.

There are no shadows in London today—just a heavy May sun beating down on a city whose spirit seems to match the weather.

Royal Wedding Sidelights

LONDON (CP) — Six enlisted men aboard the Royal yacht Britannia had to postpone their own weddings because of Princess Margaret's honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean. Two of the couples were invited to Westminster Abbey for the Royal wedding.

Among Commonwealth representatives, Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya were the first arrivals at Westminster Abbey. Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker reached the Abbey at 10:40 a.m. just before Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand.

In Moscow, Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly gave a champagne reception for the British colony in the embassy's white and gold drawing room in honor of the Royal wedding. It was the only note taken of the wedding in the Communist capital.

The heralded rose-bower arch, which was to have lined the Mall, had to be left incomplete. Crowds were so thick Tuesday night that the workmen were unable to get through to finish the job of erecting it.

Crowds camping out overnight on the Princess' wedding route provided a bonanza for an enterprising team of "once over lightly" men. They moved through the crowd with mobile electric shavers and found thousands of customers.

The Pope has conveyed his best wishes to Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones on their wedding through his apostolic delegate in London, Archbishop Gerald Patrick O'Hara, it was announced today.

New Zealand's wedding gift to Princess Margaret and her husband will be a pair of silver gift table ornaments in the form of kiwis, acting prime minister Clarence Skinner announced in Wellington today.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor had no comment today on the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones. The duke and duchess are staying at their country home just outside Paris.

B.C. Will Send Gift to Princess

The B.C. government has not yet sent a wedding gift to Princess Margaret but will do so later, Premier Bennett said today.

He gave no indication what the gift would be. During her Centenary visit here in 1958, the government made her a gift of Portland Island.

MAY STRIKE AGAIN

Dogs, Troops Hunt Killer

LYTTON, B.C. (CP)—The army and tracking dogs joined an RCMP manhunt Thursday for the killer of a Canadian Pacific Railway patrolman.

Citizens in this railroad town at the junction of the Thompson and Fraser rivers fear the gunman is berserk and may kill again.

Police in Vancouver and other CPR railway centres have been told to watch for a transient carrying a high-powered sporting rifle.

Louis Szokircsak, 63, was shot twice while making his lonely patrol four miles south of here. One of the bullets from a rifle passed through his chest, the other through his leg.

The gunman then came out from his hiding place in the rocks above the track, dragged Mr. Szokircsak's body 30 feet and dropped it down a 70-foot cliff.

Then he pushed the patrolman's handcar over the cliff, 785 feet east from where the body was left, and fled as the first light of day was breaking.

FOOTPRINTS FOUND

RCMP from Kamloops, who are heading the investigation found several well-defined footprints at the scene of the killing.

Tracking dogs picked up a scent but it soon ran cold. There were no other clues.

The army took in a mine detector from Camp Chilliwack and began a detailed search for the metal casings of the cartridges.

Police said the killing was "savage and premeditated."

From the angle of the bullet wounds, they surmise Mr. Szokircsak had stopped his handcar and was bending over when shot.

NO MOTIVE

There was no apparent motive for the murder.

Mr. Szokircsak had little money and never carried any with him. Almost everyone in Lytton knew this.

He immigrated to Canada from Hungary 25 years ago and spent most of his time working for the railroad. He was a conscientious employee and well liked.

Six years ago he had saved enough money to bring his wife out from Hungary. They lived quietly in a company house near the station.

TEXTILE BAN 'INCOMPLETE'

MONTREAL (CP)—Quota restrictions placed by Japan on her exports of clothing and textiles to Canada are "incomplete," the Canadian Apparel and Textile Manufacturers Association said Thursday.

Commenting on the new quotas announced by Finance

Minister Fleming, Laz Peters, association president, said Japanese sales of clothing and textiles in Canada this year will approximate "the disorderly flood of 1959."

He said Japanese exports of clothing and textiles in 1959 were valued at $41,500,000 compared with a total of $26,500,000 in 1958.

"The quotas applied and shipments made by the Japanese in 1959 were exorbitant by any standards. Such quotas are scarcely a restraint to Japanese exporters."

GOVERNMENT AND FORT VICTORIA

Pearson Doubts Legality Of Grants to Quebec

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader Pearson said Thursday he has "grave doubts" about the constitutionality of the federal government's new proposal for university grants in Quebec.

He gave notice in the Commons that the Liberal opposition will propose an amendment to the government's university grants bill, replacing the government's new formula with "something better, of permanent and accepted value."

Mr. Pearson also accused Solicitor-General Balcer of suggesting that the Canadian constitution could be "Balkanized."

This was in reply to Mr. Balcer's speech last week criticizing the former Liberal government's formula for providing federal grants to universities which were rejected by

Quebec. At the time, Mr. Balcer said that any legislation accepted by only nine provinces and unacceptable to the 10th province "leaves a very grave doubt as to its constitutionality."

Mr. Pearson said this was "an amazing doctrine—the divisibility of the constitution."

The government's present bill would continue the previous method of federal grants payments in all provinces but Quebec. Presumably Mr. Balcer was supporting the bill. Thus, according to Mr. Pearson, the method was unconstitutional only in Quebec.

U.S. Wheat Sale to India Accepted

Canada made no objection to the big trade deal under which the United States will supply India with 587,200,000 bushels of wheat over the next four years.

This was made clear by Trade Minister Churchill, who added that Canada had extended its appreciation to the U.S. for keeping it informed of the progress of negotiations.

Mr. Churchill also said, replying to George McIlraith (Liberal, Ottawa West), that the agreement provides ample safeguards for the Canadian wheat export industry.

The cost to India of the wheat and 1,000,000 metric tons of U.S. rice will be $1,276,000,000, payable in rupees.

One of the safeguards cited by Mr. Churchill was an Indian undertaking to purchase 14,680,000 bushels of wheat each year in world markets.

The House was promised a statement Monday on the Canadian government's position on United States plans to explode four nuclear devices off the Alaska coast.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue asked whether the government, which has declared it opposes nuclear tests of any kind, will oppose the American plan.

Acting Prime Minister Fleming suggested the reply could await the return to Ottawa Monday of External Affairs Minister Green, now in London after attending NATO ministerial conferences in Istanbul.

NOWLAN LAUDS CBC SUCCESS

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to parliament for the CBC, said Thursday he is sure all MPs are proud of the record of the corporation as shown by the winning of so many prizes in the annual Ohio State Awards for Broadcasting.

Mr. Nowlan said in response to a Commons question by H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) that the CBC with its usual modesty had not even mentioned its success to him.

A Royal Wedding

THE PEOPLE OF THIS community, in company with millions all over the Commonwealth, will wish Princess Margaret and her husband lasting happiness as they begin their married life today.

Like any couple in the realm, this young woman and this young man must create for themselves a home and a new place in life, and even though they may be outside the full glare of royal publicity their problems and responsibilities will be many. In meeting these problems they will have the earnest wishes and prayers of good people everywhere.

The splendor of a royal occasion in the age-old setting of the Abbey and the glitter of the Court and noted guests give to this marriage a background of pomp and tradition available to very few. But the two principals are known for their individuality and their realistic approach to life; they share a common belief in the importance of living rather than merely existing, and their joint career promises to be an interesting, useful and active one.

Little can be said for the outrageous way in which some newspapers and commentators have exhibited shameful bad manners in recent weeks. To make a headline some journals have not hesitated to stoop to the lowest forms of gossip and fabrication. That is a poor return for the loyalty of a woman who has consistently put the needs of her country before her own wishes. Happily it is not representative of the feelings of the people of Britain who in the past few days have shown their warm support and affection for the Princess in her new-found happiness.

The Times joins with Canadians everywhere in wishing health and joy to the bride and bridegroom.

South Africa Versus the Rest

MR. ERIC LOUW, SOUTH Africa's minister of external affairs, now in London, not only rejects any thought of modifying his Government's racial policies, but says that the world's criticism of them is based on "completely distorted and untrue" press reports. Everything, we are asked to believe, would go along satisfactorily in South Africa if the world, and the Commonwealth, would only mind their own business.

To begin with, Mr. Louw cannot draw this convenient line around South Africa's business, since racial outrages have been made the business of the world by the United Nations Charter, and the business of the Commonwealth in particular by the will of its peoples and governments.

This fact is not altered in the least by the polite manners of the Commonwealth prime ministers' London conference and perhaps has been indicated to Mr. Louw by the angry crowds around South Africa House.

In the second place, if Mr. Louw thinks the world's press is wrong about conditions in South Africa he must also think that the prime ministers of the Commonwealth are wrong, all except Mr. Verwoerd. Are we to believe, then, that Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Nehru, Mr. Diefenbaker and the others are basing their opinions on false newspaper reports?

When Mr. Louw was asked, at a press conference, whether his attack on false reports applied to Mr. Diefenbaker's declaration of "complete abhorrence" of racial discrimination the South African representative said he did not know the thoughts of the Canadian prime minister. If he doesn't he has not read the stenographic harsard of our Parliament, which he will hardly call inaccurate.

When a Canadian correspondent said to Mr. Louw, "I think you know very well" about Mr. Diefen-baker's views, Mr. Louw beat a hasty retreat. He said he would not presume to criticize the views of a Commonwealth prime minister.

But Mr. Diefenbaker, while restraining himself perhaps too much, has not failed to condemn the apartheid policy—not on the basis of newspaper reports but on the basis of his own official reports from his own representatives in South Africa.

Mr. Louw came to London in an embarrassing position, without precedent in the history of the Commonwealth, but his attempt to blame everything on the newspapers will impress no one outside South Africa. Perhaps, in the circumstances, he could find no other excuse and thought that attack was the best method of defence. From all these clumsy debating points, however, one solid fact emerges—South Africa, says Mr. Louw, has no intention of changing its racial policies to suit anybody.

If this means that men like Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Nehru and Mr. Diefenbaker have had no effect on Mr. Louw and the South African Government the news is bad indeed, especially for South Africa.

But the world has some reason to believe that affairs in South Africa are not going exactly as Mr. Louw represents them in London. There are increasing signs of protest against the Government's behavior among white opposition parties, among businessmen who see the consequences of isolation, even among some members of the Government itself.

At any rate, Mr. Louw will certainly go home knowing that South African policies are condemned not merely by the press but by the almost unanimous opinion of the Commonwealth, their peoples and their governments. This may not influence men like Mr. Louw and Mr. Verwoerd but it can hardly fail to influence the more sensible people of South Africa.

Worth Another Look

THE CITY AND THE THREE adjacent municipalities once again face high costs for their police and firefighting services. Their predicament invites another look at proposals to bring the two protective services under respective central authorities for more economical operation.

The location of fire stations throughout the area provides little chance of savings since there is no duplication of coverage, but economies might be possible in administration. In police work better use might be made of radio patrol cars if municipal boundaries did not apply to them, and administrative economies might be possible under centralized authority which are not possible now.

As it stands at present, we have four "head offices" working within a few miles of each other, where one head office might do the job as well with less expense.

The seriousness of the situation may be seen in the suggestions made in the city council that one fire station be closed and fourteen men laid off. The proposal will not be carried out, but it received close consideration. On such a level of desperation, even the modest savings that might be effected by amalgamation of services deserve close examination.

We'll Have to Buy Too

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT expects Russia to buy ten million dollars' worth of Canadian wheat which it was supposed to buy under a trade agreement expiring last February. But will Russia really buy it? Only if Russia sees fit to do so in the light of future trade conditions.

Canada's new agreement with Russia provides that the Russians will buy the wheat of the old agreement "provided trade develops in a satisfactory manner" in accordance with the new agreement.

What would Russians consider a "satisfactory" development of trade with Canada? They would consider it satisfactory if Canada bought twelve and a half million dollars' worth of Russian goods in the next year. This would be six times over purchases last year—a minute figure in relation to our total trade but a large figure in our past trade with Russia.

But it is to be hoped our imports from Russia will live up to the Russians' hopes since they have agreed, in return, to buy twice as much from us. Controlling all trade, Russia can fix and guarantee its imports from any nation. Our imports will depend on the uncontrollable demands of many private importers. And these no one can exactly foresee.

PUT AWAY THE MOWER

Relief for the Faltering Grassman

By B. A. TOBIN

I can hardly wait for an anti-gibberellin to arrive. And I'll bet you are on tenterhooks too. And if you don't know what an anti-gibberellin is you're missing out on a very pleasurable bit of anticipation. An anti-gibberellin is the latest word in grassman's, a more potent force for the maintenance of lawn order than any of the western sheriffs now achieving nightly fame on TV, and a boon to every suburbanite and garden slave in the nation.

An anti-gibberellin—and we get this from an authority—is a hormone-like substance that suppresses the growth of grass while not affecting its health and green appearance.

Just think of that. Cut your lawn to the desired height, treat it with good old Auntie Gib, and you're all set for the summer. It will stay green, short and pretty, and as though this weren't enough, it will also be free of weeds and crab grass.

Up and Away

Most important of all, it will be free of you and your lawn mower, and you will be free for the golf course, the outboard boat and fishing tackle, or the hammock.

The thing is still in the future, mind. But the laboratories are working on it and it won't be long before distant fields will not only look green, but short and weed-free too.

This will make a great difference in the appearance of many of our suburban streets. Lawn owners who habitually let their lawns go unwatered during the summer in order to curb their growth will be able to have green grass again instead of the golden brown that has become almost a trade mark of the man who dodges hose-reel duty. This alone will transform the prevailing color of many a neighborhood.

And by cutting down on water consumption among those who insist on a lush green environment throughout the hot weather, it will improve the chances of getting a bath on a summer evening without enduring the usual low-pressure trickle from the faucet.

Grass-Roots Opinion

All this will go over great with homophiles. How it will be received by other forms of lawn life remains to be seen. It should be something less than popular.

The wasps and ants which find homes each summer in the bone-dry soil under my lawn, for instance, will probably take a dim view of the heavy green cover that will follow the advent of the anti-gibberellin. They won't like this impediment to their accustomed way of life and no doubt will let me know.

The moss that tries so hard to be a lawn will probably be a prime target for anti-gib, and complaints will be as loud as moss can possibly make them.

Needless to say, the moss will be joined by clover, sheep sorrel, dandelions, buttercups, deadly nightshade, chickweed, blackberry brambles, mushrooms, willow trees, and fifteen other types of vigorous growth which have a go each year at taking over the lawn for themselves.

Wide Open Spaces

The anti-anti-gibberellin movement will find heavy support among them, and their means may well drown out the hormones. But this should not deter the true lawnman. His only problem will be to provide enough seeds to fill in with grass the bare spaces that the departure of the weeds has exposed. And the area so uncovered could be of embarrassing extent.

Perhaps a semi-anti-gibberellin would be the real answer. This would not eradicate weeds, but would, as in the case of grass, hold back its growth so that the lawn preserved a smooth, flat surface all summer long without the need to replace the weeds.

But whatever variations may be developed, I and thousands of other devotees of lawnmanhood look forward eagerly to the new process. It will be the greatest lawn-discovery since the fellow cemented his yard over and painted it green. That was effective enough but it lacked finesse and delicacy. This latest thing is far superior. At last we can all be green, and not with envy.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

On What Grounds?

One of your correspondents of April 19 issue brings up the subject of "grounds for divorce" and makes a few suggestions.

What human being has the right to set up standards in this respect when the Good Book has declared in Matthew 19.9 that there can be no dissolution of the marriage tie, except for unfaithfulness to the marriage vow as brought out in the above-mentioned text.

For the Crow

Man—brave, intelligent, humane man. He feels so superior to animals and yet can band together under the title of Rod and Gun Club and go forth unthinking, to exterminate, en masse, an intelligent bird, the crow.

Some one once told me that B.C. means bug country. If we allow our birds to be shot, as well as the thousands we are losing annually by weed poisoning, that is certainly how our beautiful B.C. will end.

May I suggest that the Rod and Gun Club take their guns out against each other and by so doing will rid our community of men who take pleasure in cruel pastimes. We need our birds—even the crow.

P. M. ELVIN.

For Rodeos

Recently I heard on the radio a woman member of the SPCA censuring the cruelties suffered by livestock in rodeo competition and it made me realize how typical the comments were of the uninformed, who hastily condemn without being aware of the true facts.

Rodeo stock contractors make their livelihood from rodeo and most are expert stockmen, so the care given their animals is of the utmost importance. This is evident in their attitude toward the Vancouver SPCA in inviting 18 officers to inspect operations during the forthcoming PNE rodeo in August.

Even the rodeo set down by the Rodeo Cowboys Association, as well as others, seem designed to give the animals a far better chance to remain intact than the contestants, which is usually the case.

The fact that riders must use only blunt spurs with free moving rowsels, which practically eliminates injury, indicates that livestock welfare is of primary importance. Also, many people don't realize that the events appear harder on the stock than they really are.

As for the popularity of rodeo fading nothing could be further from the truth.

Every year the Calgary Stampede, for one, sets new attendance records and new rodeos are constantly produced. Top contestants make in excess of $25,000 yearly and travel some 60,000 miles in doing this.

Rodeo is the second attendance sport in North America and is as such a profession as baseball, which ranks first, or horse racing or any other major sports, and as such maintains strict rules and regulations.

Good Government

If you want good government, and the great majority of Canadians do, then you must work to put in people with sincere, honest, truly Canadian ideas, if you cannot go in yourselves.

The greatest ills in many nations have arisen from the fact that people are not sufficiently interested in their government. Public apathy encourages official corruption.

Failure to use the rights bestowed by democracy advanced the rapid growth of dictatorship. If people as a whole withdraw from the arena of politics, then selfish and tyrannical minorities can and do monopolize the great power of government.

Revolution

By DUART FARQUHARSON

CAIRO—A revolution, gradual but more pervasive than the political upheavals which periodically rock the Arab world, is taking place here. The immemorial structure of a man's world is being overturned.

Sometime this summer the women of the United Arab Republic will receive in law the equality inside the home that they have already won outside of it. In marriage and divorce they will no longer be chattels.

As the law stands now more than one-quarter of all married men trot off to the registration office each year to say they want a divorce. Within half an hour the divorce is granted; one week later a certificate arrives to prove it.

Granted they must pay alimony, but only for one year. Their ex-wives may keep their children for a while—a boy until he is nine, a girl until she is 11.

When the promised new law comes into effect the husband will have to prove in front of a judge that life with his wife is impossible, on grounds such as infidelity or desertion. Alimony will be more stringent, fixed by the judge taking into account the principle of compensation. The mother will have the guardianship of her children until they are 13, when the judge will decide.

Hitherto a woman could only divorce her husband if she had previously stated this right on her marriage certificate. Because for an Arab woman marriage is everything, few bothered to do so.

Most dramatic, if not as important, the Moslem's right to have as many as four wives will be curtailed. Actually, according to statistics, less than three per cent of Egyptian husbands practise polygamy today. If the Government of President Nasser keeps its promise to feminist organizations—against the strenuous opposition of some church leaders—polygamy will soon be virtually ended.

Battle Nearly Won

The new laws are the fruit of a battle which has been waged by progressive women since the first of their sex were admitted to Egyptian universities in 1929. In recent years the feminist campaign has been aggressive: women in every university, girls in every school, professional women and housewives have written to the President and the newspapers demanding equality.

Outside the man's home female rights have already been secured. Thirty years ago Egyptian women began holding the same jobs as men; today they work as lawyers, doctors, journalists, engineers—everything except judges. From the beginning they have received equal pay in government jobs; a law recently promulgated assures them the same remuneration as men in other work.

Today nearly 25 per cent of the students at Cairo University are women. "Do you fraternize with the men students on campus?" I asked one of them.

"Some of us do, and are criticized for it," she said. "Some of us don't—and are criticized for it. This is our problem. We don't know how to act with men—on a basis of equality. Maybe it will be easier for the next generation because now they are making the high schools co-educational. But we went to girls' schools."

All of these university girls insist that they will marry for love; that they, not their parents, will choose their husbands. But few of them have the freedom to go out at night, to associate with men before engagement or marriage itself. The North American idea of dating has only begun to be comprehended in the educated class.

When it penetrates to the Arab masses the revolution will be over. But that will take a long time.

Well Spent

I recently received the following letter from Korea. The Halloween money collected by Vancouver Island Sunday School children has obviously been put to good use.

It is planned, with the Halloween collection to be made in 1960, to establish a complete nursery school adjoining the Widows and Orphans Home. With this encouraging letter, I would like to thank all those children and parents who assisted in making possible the improvements described.

GERTRUDE E. MCGILL.
3441 Mayfair Drive.
(Save the Children Fund.)

We received your generous gift twice, 1,500 pounds last year and 1,100 pounds a few days ago. We, my husband and I, are very happy and glad that you are much interested in our Widows and Orphans Home and helping with a large amount of money. We do not know how we can adequately thank you for your interest and help to us. It was very time we needed money.

Your money was spent and will be spent as follows:

1. One thousand, five hundred pounds was spent on the building.
2. One thousand, one hundred pounds will be spent on:
 - (a) Loan, 1,000,000 Hwan.
 - (b) Land, 400 Pyong, 453,000 Hwan (money left over).
 - (c) Pig sties, 120,000 Hwan.
 - (d) Hogs, 200,000 Hwan.
 - (e) Greenhouse, 350,000 Hwan.
 - (f) Fence, 400,000 Hwan.
 - (g) Bean sprout, 320,000 Hwan.
 - (h) Fishes, 200,000 Hwan.

It is most important to set up something where mothers can work and earn their living by themselves. This is the only way they can grow on spirit of self-support.

If the plan are carried out to completion, every mother will be very busy with their work. We laid foundation of Bean sprout last year, and for pig sties a week ago.

Greenhouse was set up a few months ago with loan from the SCF Welfare Officer and about 30 different flowers have been replanted such as carnation, asparagus, gladiolus, lily, hippeastrum, anemone, begonia, cyclamen, freesia, camellia, etc. We expect women can take flowers to downtown to sell them on next fall.

We deeply thank you for your kindness and help for our poor people. The money will be spent wisely for your purpose.

An Evening at Hyde Park

LONDON—The very dark young man with the limpid brown eyes says there has been no trouble in British Guiana, but there will be. This is the story of the rising tide of color and nationalism. And this is Hyde Park, by Marble Arch.

A small knot of people, white-skinned and black, leans toward him, like boys in a school yard listening to a risqué story. He speaks quietly, almost conspiratorially, in the soft April evening, developing his case.

Nearby, on a low, portable stand that would have been a soap-box if soap-boxes were still available, a naturalist speaks of a roistering youth: "Lor', at Christmas parties, didn't I art sop it up. Life of the party, I was. But not anymore." And he tells how everyone can find the Light.

On a higher, laddered stand, bearing the name of a Catholic youth group, a boy who looks no more than 15 gives the Word to the scattered crowd. For his years he is marvellously articulate, and he handles questions with the aplomb of a veteran politician.

"Gentleman 'ere asks . . ." and he repeats the question, offering an answer or side-stepping it as neatly as a boxer. Below him a man, apparently informed on the Old Testament, interjects the inevitable and unanswerable posers which such discussions invite. But the boy dances nimbly away from the awkward issues to launch into another.

A little further along a stocky speaker explains the emigration of the Irish. "It's encouraged by the Irish government," he says. "And you want to know for why? It's on orders from the Pope in Rome. They're sending these Irish all over Britain to Christianize the natives. Proselytizing, that's wot."

The variety of themes that evening at Hyde Park closely paralleled the run of the day's letters to the editor—an impression that was made all the stronger and brought me a sudden twinge of homesickness when I stepped off the sidewalk to cross Park Lane and was nearly hit by a small van carrying the name "F. Partridge."

Stott

As we sauntered along with old Victoria friends and guides, we encountered a pedestrian incredibly dirty, unshaven, unwashed, uncombed, in clothes that seemed to have lain too long in too many unswep corners. Yet he still managed to walk with a conscious pride in his gait.

"An artist," my friend explained. "Any good?" I asked. "Not very, but he sells occasionally to tourists. If you're interested, swing around the other side of the park next weekend and you'll find several artists exhibiting for sale on the sidewalk."

But if our artist friend was dirty, he probably had better reason to be than another group that looks equally unwashed. This is composed of imitators of the so-called Chelsea set. They're teenage girls with badly tinted haystack or beehive hairdos and cosmetic makeup to match. Gobs of blue eye-shadow weigh down their lids and form a smudge for the heavily-beaded lashes which look as if a careless youngster has gone wrong with the sticky plum jam.

You shudder to look at them, thinking perhaps they should be dumped on a compost heap. Yet, given a good scrub-up, they might be attractive-looking kids. Certainly there are lots of bright, tidy and chic young women in London, as you notice when the offices debouche for the day. But the better, more tastefully-dressed women seem to run into the late thirties.

And the men, no matter how worn their jackets, seem to make a fetish of well-polished shoes—unless they're wearing sandals or any number of special styles, usually Italian-designed.

Perhaps no people in the world can give the impression of minding their own business better than Londoners. We've watched them reading their papers in queues—men in dark suits, bowler hats, with umbrellas crooked over their arms and noses buried in columns of print.

They advance unconsciously as the line moves along, never, apparently missing a word of their reading. They halt to let someone cross through the line, shuffle ahead again, still reading. Physical guidance is a sort of sixth sense. English television comedian Dave King doesn't exaggerate much when he mimics them on guest appearances on American TV.

AT FORT ST. JOHN IN 1934

'Trusty' Fired At Another Man

Raymond Harold, "trusty" at Colquitz Mental Home who shot and killed a Saanich policeman April 24, once tried to shoot another man in northern B.C.

Records produced at the inquest Thursday showed Harold was committed for mental care at Fort St. John, Aug. 13, 1934, after procuring a .38 Smith & Wesson pistol and firing it at a man named "Weaver".

Dr. L. G. C. d'Easum, superintendent of the mental home here, said Harold fired two shots at the man, both misses.

The coroner's jury deliberated 30 minutes before returning a verdict that Harold shot and killed Const. Robert Kirby who "met his death in the performance of his duty."

The jury also recommended an immediate investigation into operation of the mental home on Wilkinson Road.

Deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore, in his charge to the jury, said he did not believe any official at the mental home had been proven guilty of negligence.

Dr. d'Easum said there had been "practically no change" in the operation of the mental home since the death of Const. Kirby.

UP TO A-G

Meanwhile Health Minister Eric Martin said an investigation into operation of the mental home had already been conducted and any further investigations would be left to the attorney-general's department.

Mr. Martin said the entire mental health picture in B.C. had been reviewed, including the Colquitz Mental Home, and the report should be down in the fall.

Dr. d'Easum said Thursday night he had "no objection" to a further investigation.

THE THINGS WE SEE

Soviet Painting

In the midst of the continuing controversy over the exhibition of Soviet painting, which is presently in Canada, it has been refreshing and enlightening to read some well chosen words of wisdom from former U.S. ambassador to the U.S.S.R. the Hon. George Kennan.

The words are from a speech which Mr. Kennan made to the International Council of the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 1955. Even after five years, his thoughts are entirely pertinent.

First of all, he stresses the importance of cultural exchanges as such, and he reminds all of us North Americans that we must not be smug, in an age of mass communications, and assume we know all we need about the outside world. Picture magazines, television, films, etc. . . none of these can substitute for contact with the living work of art, whether that be the Bolshoi Ballet, Jose Greco, or a collection of paintings. Whether or not we like these importations is not the point: the point is that large continental countries such as the U.S. and ourselves need the impact of foreign cultural values just as rain is needed by the desert.

Kennan points out that in smaller countries (he is thinking mainly of the small maritime countries of Europe) association with other peoples is something that can hardly be avoided, but that in large countries there is a danger that the great heartlands should become closed national backwaters. He remarks that he has seen this happen to some extent in the Soviet Union, but he also courageously and honestly goes on to say—to an American audience—that similar danger is present in the great mid-west. (He is himself a mid-westerner) of America itself. The same, of course, could be said of Canada.

We need cultural exchange, in Kennan's words, "for our sakes alone, for our development as individuals and as a nation, lest we fall into complacency, sterility and emotional decay; lest we lose our sense of the capabilities of the human spirit, and with it much of our sensitivity to the possible meaning and wonder of life itself." Let us not, therefore, be patronizing about the Soviet painting exhibition.

Then, Kennan asks that we reject that most reprehensible habit, a totalitarian habit in fact, or judging the suitability of cultural contributions "by whatever political coloration we conceive their creators to have acquired. A painting is not more or less valuable because the artist once belonged to this or that party or contributed to this or that group. . . cultural events are not political livestock exhibits in which we put forward human figures to be admired for the purity of their ideological features."

Let us, for goodness sake, look like mature people at the content of what we are promoting, in Kennan's plea. Furthermore, he notes, that it is not enough to let other people send things here and come here themselves. "It is important to see that any cultural activity sponsored by foreigners that takes place within our borders is surrounded at all times with an atmosphere of hospitality and warmth, friendliness and perceptive sympathy." I am certain that the Russians have experienced just that from the officials concerned with the Soviet painting exhibition in both Montreal and Ottawa: some of our artists, critics and members of the intelligentsia have been rather less than cordial.

Having said all this, let us look at the Soviet paintings. My own reaction is one of great disappointment rather than distaste. To me the works are mostly dull and old-fashioned. They are "old-fashioned" in precisely the same way that the interior design of that superb jet-aircraft which visited Canada last autumn is old-fashioned. If you ignored the fact that a two-engine airplane had carried more than 115 people to a height of 37,000 feet and had taken them from Uplands to Toronto in less than 37 minutes, and simply looked at the design of the interior, you would think you were riding in a Pullman car of about 1917.

So, viewing the exhibition of Soviet painting, I have a sense of baffled disappointment; disappointment that so gifted a people (or federation of peoples) should be content, in the field of visual arts, to remain a closed national backwater. When, as Kennan points out, water is taken out of the great stream of international thought and inspiration and is channeled into a closed national backwater, it quickly becomes stagnant and sterile.

For their own reasons, Soviet authorities have kept Russian painters uncontaminated, and, therefore, unchallenged by all the cross-currents of the modern movements in art which have occurred in the Western world since the emergence of post-Impressionism. As a result their art has stagnated, just as has their industrial design.

'Battle of the Bomarc' Carried Into Senate

WASHINGTON (CP)—The proposed cancellation of production of the anti-aircraft missile, in which Canada is interested, is likely to come May 18, first big assault against the

At that time, Defence Secretary Thomas Gates will be called before a Senate appropriations committee to state what programs he would like to see restored in the U.S. defence spending program for the next fiscal year approved by the House of Representatives Thursday.

The $39,337,967,000 defence bill, as approved by the House, reduces Bomarc-B missile production to a small development program and shifts some of the funds saved into the purchase of two squadrons of F-196 manned interceptors.

TWO FOR CANADA

Canada was to get two Bomarc-B squadrons.

Undoubtedly Gates—and the service chiefs to follow him in testimony—would call for restoration of all or part of the $294,000,000 funds withdrawn from Bomarc by the House bill.

That doesn't mean that Gates' views would automatically gain widespread acceptance. A number of senators, including the chairman of the appropriations subcommittee, have sharply criticized Bomarc performance. But senators from Washington—the state where Bomarc is produced—have quietly launched a drive to build up more support for the Bomarc among their colleagues.

One argument that Bomarc supporters might be put forward—perhaps as a last resort—is that the U.S. Air Force promised to provide Canada with two Bomarc-B squadrons. The defence department argument is that Canada dumped production of the CF-105 Arrow interceptor in favor of Bomarc and is relying on the U.S. to provide the missile under a Canada-U.S. air defence arrangement.

Defence authorities have made clear to Congress that if the U.S. air force doesn't get the Bomarc-B, neither will Canada.

Building Decline

NANAIMO (CP)—New building permits issued here during April totalled only $62,500 according to city hall figures. Cumulative figures for the year to date now stand at $289,100 compared to $905,798 for the same period last year.

TAXES UP 7 MILLS

NORTH KAMLOOPS—The 1960 village budget calls for a boost in the tax rate of seven mills, to 44 mills, council heard Wednesday. Expenses are budgeted at a record $502,800, up $42,740 from last year.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

1960 ROYAL COMMISSION ON ROAD USER CHARGES NOTICE OF REGIONAL HEARINGS

The British Columbia Commission will hold public hearings at the Court House in each of the following centres commencing at 9.30 a.m. if sufficient briefs are to be presented:

Kelowna	June 27th and 28th, 1960
Cranbrook	June 30th, 1960
Terrace	August 8th, 1960
Prince George	August 10th, 1960
Fort St. John	August 11th, 1960
Vancouver	August 30th and 31st, 1960

Those wishing to be heard should advise the Secretary, J. R. Meredith, Room 320A, Douglas Building, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, as soon as possible and forward seven copies of their briefs at least ten days prior to the date of hearing.

Egypt Dockworkers Hold Up Passengers

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egyptian dock workers prevented 258 passengers on an American ship from going ashore at Suez Thursday as part of their boycott against American shipping.

Demonstrators met the 14,984-ton American liner Brazil in launches and refused to let the passengers land for the usual quick trip to Cairo.

TO DRAW MORE TOURISTS

Strawberry Queen Festival Suggested

Victoria—the city of the Strawberry Festival.

That is one of the newest and latest suggestions submitted in the Chamber of Commerce's Tourist Appreciation Week questionnaire contest.

Aiming at the $50 first prize or one of three runner-up prizes of $25 each, a city resident poses the question: "Does anyone, anywhere grow more luscious strawberries than in Victoria?"

Answering her proposition: "Let's have a Strawberry Festival every year so that we may have people flocking to our city."

The essayist outlined a week-long festival program based on a strawberry theme.

Spread over eight single-spaced typewritten pages featuring luscious-looking strawberry drawings, the essayist suggested these events:

Speedboat races on Cordova Bay... water-skiing at Thetis Lake... square dancing exhibition at Memorial Arena... "people will see the beauty of the dances, take pictures which will go to many parts of the country"... decorated boats chugging from the Inner Harbor to Gorge for a tea-room stop—"and if there isn't one there, make one!"

A Strawberry Queen competition featuring girls from senior high schools with the queen receiving a first-year scholarship at Victoria University... boat trip to Princess Margaret's Island... water follies at Crystal Garden... garden party at Government House "where strawberries can be bought—besides, tourists like to see anything connected with royalty"... grand floral parade with a "remember when?" theme, and finally, a climactic torch light parade with emphasis on flower floats.

Other essayists suggested: changing of the Guard at Government House as is done at Buckingham Palace; a pageantry of Old England with false store fronts; flower festival similar to that held annually at Adelaide, Australia.

One writer suggested that

Court 'Reluctantly' Imposes Bingo Fine

OTTAWA (CP)—Magistrate Joachim Sauve "reluctantly" fined the Kinsmen Club of Ottawa $50 Thursday for its newspaper bingos that have raised more than $200,000 for local charities in four years. The numbers were published in all three daily newspapers here and played on cards purchased for 50 cents at stores. Top prize for each bingo was $1,500.

'GERMANY INSOLUBLE AT PRESENT'

Monty Backs Russ On Reunification

VANCOUVER (CP)—The problem of reunification of Germany at present is insoluble, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery said Thursday.

It should not be included on the agenda of the summit meeting, he added, but the question of withdrawal of all foreign forces from European bases should be fully considered.

The field marshal, who arrived here by train Thursday morning for a five-day visit, that is to include his receiving an honorary degree from UBC, expressed his views at a press conference.

He said the Russians—and the British—had suffered from the Germans in two wars and the Russians in particular do not want to see a united Germany until world security is guaranteed.

"Khrushchev and the Russian government will never allow a united Germany until the world security problem is sorted out to the satisfaction of both sides," he said. "They just won't allow it... so what's the use of discussing it."

"On this issue of a reunited Germany, until the world security problem is sorted out, I would agree with Khrushchev."

'Moral Degredation' To Throw Away Ashes

VANCOUVER (CP)—What should happen to a person's ashes after cremation? In fact, what to do with the cremated remains of 2,000 bodies left unclaimed here since the beginning of the First World War?

These questions were considered Wednesday by the Public Utilities Commission. On the question of disposal of ashes G. A. Arnold, president of Forest Lawn and Ocean View Cemeteries asked for a ban on the scattering of human ashes. He said it is a revolting practice to release cremated remains to the general public.

"It's a sign of moral degradation of our race to throw Dad into the garbage can. I know it's being done today—not in the ash can—but thrown away."

PUC chairman Dr. H. F. Angus said "it's a little suspect for the owners of cemeteries and crematoriums to ask for this restriction in the public interest."

William Simpson, director of Vancouver Crematorium Ltd., said 2,000 urns of ashes have been abandoned in storage since 1914 by relatives who cannot be traced.

He said the company was willing to dispose of them at its own expense, provided they were scattered at sea—the most economical means.

Suggestions made at the hearing included: bury them; scatter them in Stanley Park; scatter them at sea; see that it does not happen again. The last suggestion was made by the commission.

ALL HANDS SAFE AS SHIP SINKS

MONTREAL (CP)—The 18-man crew of the Federal Express and nine stevedores escaped unhurt Thursday night after the coastal freighter sank in Montreal harbor, rammed at her berth by a deep-sea freighter.

The ship's hawsers were severed when struck by the 9,600-ton Greek freighter Polaris and she drifted into a second ocean vessel—the Thorshope—before going down.

Both larger ships remained afloat. Most of the crew and longshoremen were able to make it to the gangway or leap to the wharf. The remainder were hauled to safety by tugs. Cause of the mishap was not immediately known.

THESE RIDERS will take part in their first horse show here May 21 when they compete in junior events of the 30th annual Victoria Riding Academy's gymkhana on academy grounds, Cedar Hill Cross Road. From left, Mavis Scott on Jager and Winnie Topping on Charmer. Both horses are "ladies' hacks." There will be 19 junior events stretched over six hours from 9.30 a.m. starting time. Similar show for senior riders will be held on May 23.

Trapped 27 Hours Lad's Body Found

IRONTON, Ohio (UPI)—The body of Warren Payne, trapped more than 27 hours in a dry well in the backyard of his house at nearby Burlington, was brought to the surface Thursday night by rescue workers who labored around the clock.

One of the men who brought the body of the 19-year-old Negro minister's son to the surface was his classmate and friend, David Lester. It was Lester who Wednesday night uncovered one of his friend's arms three times, only to have the sand shift and cover it back up each time.

A crowd of about 800 spectators, including the father, Rev. Minor Payne, and three brothers and four sisters, were at the scene when Payne's body was brought to the surface.

More than 50 workers, using their hands, shovels and power equipment, fought the shifting sand and dirt throughout the night and day in an effort to reach Payne. He was buried some 35 feet down in the hole, which he and his father had just dug for a cesspool.

Charles Cameron Re-Elected By Scottish

Charles Cameron was re-elected president of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society here Thursday in Holyrood House.

Mrs. Kay Ingalls was named first vice-president and Jack Diron, second vice-president.

Other officers named were: George Gunniss, warden; Miss Georgina Mackay, secretary; Mrs. Maude Blades, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Featherstone, financial secretary; Stuart Kennedy, guardian, and Bliss Dyart, outer guard.

'Birth Control' Pill Tried Soon

LONDON (AP)—A new birth control pill taken orally probably will be tried out on human beings soon, the makers of the pill announced Wednesday.

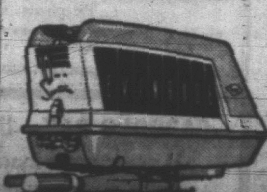

A spokesman for British Drug Houses Ltd. said:

"Our discovery is exciting, yet the uncertainties that lie ahead are many."

He said experiments on animals showed "outstanding promise as oral contraceptives."

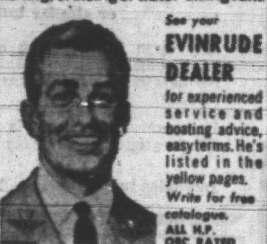

The spokesman said results of the tests on humans would not be known before mid-1961.

'Curb Instalment Buying'

By HAI MALONE
Times Business Editor

If the voice of business experience carries weight, as it properly should, the flavor of opinions of retired banker, semi-retired business man Fred I. Batcheller may interest you.

A visitor to this desk Thursday, Mr. Batcheller said he wanted to express some views on the general economy, the state of government leadership, Canadian unions dominated by American affiliates, credit buying and assorted other matters.

Mr. Batcheller doesn't confine his attack to Mr. Diefenbaker. President Eisenhower, he says, also "lacks courage to act."

"The president proved it when he didn't interfere with (Richard) Nixon, his vice-president, on the steel strike. Nixon triggered an inflationary outburst which will last God knows how long when he gave in to the steelworkers and forced the companies into settlement."

"The consequences of that are fearful. Workers are getting higher wages which will only lead to greater instalment buying. Small companies which can't afford to meet those wage demands if they are to remain competitive at home and in export markets will fold. It can't happen any other way."

"The big will grow bigger," he sighed, "and the little will become extinct."

Another trend which disturbs Mr. Batcheller is the swing of large insurance companies handling pension funds into mutual funds.

"This is bad for the general economy," he says, "because for the most part the money is going into large corporations who don't really need it. By their very size they can borrow anyway. But this (trend) simply applies the squeeze to smaller companies."

"They already have one strike against them (steadily increasing wage costs) and they sorely need fresh capital for expansion and growth."

He puts the blame strictly on the government. Or more precisely on Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Diefenbaker is doing nothing to curb inflation nor to halt the strength and demands of labor. He's too impressed by his own ego—he won't even talk to his own benchers," says Mr. Batcheller.

"He said he would help the little businessman. He has helped him—to cut his throat."

Detailing his claims, Mr. Batcheller feels that lack of legislation to curb labor's power and wage demands is the main reason for inflation.

"In steadfastly refusing to bring in legislation which would halt or at least slow down labor, particularly that segment dictated by U.S. leaders, Mr. Diefenbaker leans on the crutch that too much interference—I call it legislation—violates the Bill of Rights."

Mr. Batcheller snorted. "Bill of Rights my foot. The Bill of Rights isn't worth a tinker's dam if a man doesn't have the right to work at the job of his choice. And with many unions dictated by their strong American leaders, that is what is happening."

LAUDS U.S. POLICY
Canada—or Diefenbaker—should act as England did to curb inflation, said Mr. Batcheller.

"England cut down instalment buying and hiked interest rates—for private borrowing. Business was let alone. Because of that all business was able to borrow, to increase its production and development and to contribute to the economy. Not in Canada. By hiking the interest rates for business borrowing, Diefenbaker has strangled the small business."

Two Duncan Subdivisions Get Go-Ahead

(From Duncan Bureau)
Plans for two subdivisions in the Somenos district have been approved by North Cowichan municipal council.
W. R. and H. D. McConach, Norcross Road, plan a 37-acre development fronting on Somenos Road, one and one-half miles north of Duncan.
Cowichan School District 65 is building a 10-room junior high school, to cost $261,000, on property adjoining the planned subdivision area.
Second development will be on a five-acre tract on Lowery Road, owned by L. V. Painter. It is near Bell-McKinnon Road, and about two miles northeast of Duncan.
Further land use in the municipality was promised when council authorized the municipal clerk to call for tenders for municipal timber in the Mount Prevost area.
Terms will be on a cash and stumpage basis. Persons bidding on the two million board feet of timber available will be required to follow "fairly stringent methods of logging," according to Reeve Donald C. Morton.

They are a $400 annual award for students continuing their education at university and a $250 annual award for graduates of the general program intending to continue studies in some form of vocational training.
Extension of terms of the scholarships to include Chemainus High School, which will graduate its first grade 12 class this year, was announced by E. J. Stroyan, public relations manager for the company's western district.

'Fine Offending Industries'

CHEMAINUS—A resolution urging a government study on the effects of water pollution in B.C. rivers and streams will be supported by Chemainus Rod and Gun Club at a meeting of Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Association.

It also will ask for legislation "to provide fines against offending industries comparable to damage done to fisheries and wild life."

Another resolution will ask that drag seiners and shrimp fishermen be banned from Stuart Channel, near Crofton.

MARKETING BOARD CANDIDATES TO ADDRESS THREE MEETINGS

Candidates for election to the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, to represent Vancouver Island, will speak at stewardship meetings next week.

They are Donald Wilson and George Wyndlow, both of Ladysmith, who will be named in a secret mailed ballot.
Meetings will be as follows: Agricultural Hall, Courtenay, Monday at 1:30 p.m.; Cedar Community Hall, Monday at 5 p.m., and South Saanich Institute Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

B.C. in Spotlight At Big Trade Fairs

(From Duncan Bureau)

Displays at United States and Canadian trade fairs are being used to attract attention to the industrial potential of British Columbia, members of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce heard at their annual installation dinner on Thursday night.

Ray Kersey, industrial commissioner for the provincial department of trade and industry, speaking on capital investment in British Columbia, said the province will hold its second international trade fair in Vancouver in 1961.

"This will be bigger and better than the first fair in 1958," he said.

He predicted the Vancouver Island population will rise from its present 285,000 to 400,000 by 1970. This population growth, which will affect all of British Columbia, will be followed by a "great industrial expansion," he said.

David R. Williams was installed by Mayor Jack Dobson as president of the chamber, succeeding R. B. Evans. P. F. Bird was installed as vice-president and Eric Robinson as secretary.

Directors are Will Dobson,

R. B. Evans, J. R. Frumento, Norman Gourlay, Denis Mason-Hurley, D. K. McAdam, Ernest Paulding, Murray Poskitt, A. F. Sked and James Whit-tome.

Funeral Today For Well-Known Fair Exhibitor

(From Duncan Bureau)
Funeral services were scheduled at St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Cowichan Station today at 1:30 p.m. for Charles Sidney Lucas, 78, who died in hospital Monday.

Born at Bath in Somerset, England, he worked as a jockey-trainer early in life, and in 1911 operated a livery stable in Vancouver. For the past 31 years he lived at Cowichan Station, where he was a charter member of Cowichan Jersey Club, and active exhibitor in Vancouver Island and mainland fairs.

Surviving are the widow, Dora, at home, and a sister, nieces and nephews in England.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The rising sun was bleary behind a smear of mist. The grass was radiant with dew. The working day begins at dawn in the hamlet of green-painted barns on the back side of Churchill Downs where the Derby colts are stabled. Horses neighed with a blubbery sound. Cocks crowed with the pride of their species.

Out of a sports car, bundled in an ankle-length mink coat, came Liz Whitney Person, who owns Divine Comedy. She passed Bobby Ussery, who will ride the front-running Bally Ache.

"You sure got an easy life," she said to the jockey. "Just sit there and let them catch you."

Someone asked her how Divine Comedy looked in the Stepping Stone, when he finished second to Bally Ache on the greasy track here.

"He looked like an ice skater," said the horsewoman. As you talk to horsemen here, only Tompion, Bally Ache and Venetian Way seem to be running in the Derby. I mentioned to H. A. Luro that this year's field was disfigured by some horses which should be running in claiming races.

"These men have no respect for the Derby," said the elegant trainer of E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park. "Some men put their horses in just to advertise their businesses. Why don't they put an ad in the newspapers?"

Down the line, racing journalists were praising Bally Ache to Jimmy Pitt, who trains him.

"This is the worst race for a speed horse," he said with the regret that is common to people in his business. "Someone is always running at you. Soon as you get rid of one, another one is at you. Then you got that long stretch with those stretch runners taking shots at you."

On a picket fence, Vic Sovinski, who trains Venetian Way, watched his colt cropping grass.

"That's all he does is eat," he said, like some amazed father discussing his child's appetite.

"You like Bally Ache or Tompion as the horse to beat?" a reporter asked him.

"Tompion," said Sovinski, which is what most of them claim in the village of horsemen.

"Bally Ache has speed, and what a game horse he is," another guy said.

"I believe my horse has enough speed to go out and run with him on the lead."

A groom was walking Tompion.

"He's coming up to the race awfully good," said Bob Wheeler, who handles Tompion. "Has he ever run on a cuppy track like this?" "I don't know what you call them New York tracks," said Wheeler, "but he never had no trouble with tracks any place."

Listening was Roscoe Goose, a glad, wizened, old jockey, who won his Derby with Donerail.

"Tompion ain't a quick gate horse," said Goose. "He's quick once he gets started, but he could get in a lot of trouble the first hundred yards."

"I originally favored Tompion," said Jimmy Jones, Calumet's great trainer. "Until I saw the race Bally Ache put in. If Bally Ache ever gets loose and gone, they'll never catch him. Calumet's Pied d'Or is a quick horse, but I had to give him a month's vacation after he tried to run with Bally Ache. If I was training Tompion, I'd go right out and stay with Bally Ache. If he gets loose of Tompion, he'll never be caught. I know Tompion don't want to go out with him. But he'd better, or Bally Ache's gone."

It is an opinion I respect because Jimmy Jones and his old man, Ben, are the greatest of all Derby trainers. I repeated his theory to Ussery.

"Jimmy's figuring for himself," replied Bally Ache's rider. "He's saying that because Hillsborough's a come-out-of-it horse."

Only Contenders Skip Trials

NEW YORK (AP)—Eleven former winners and titleholders from five countries are in the record field of 2,480 seeking the 60th U.S. open golf championship this year.

Fine Recovery By Worcester

WORCESTER, England (Reuters)—Worcester staged a good recovery Thursday against the South African tourists on the second day of the cricket match here.

Losing its first two wickets for 24, in reply to the tourists' overnight declared total of 365 for six, Worcestershire saved the follow-on and was all out for 235.

In the remaining 35 minutes, the South Africans increased their lead to 130 by 11 runs without losing a wicket.

The county's ninth wicket fell at 210—making six runs needed to force South Africa to bat again. But fast-bowler Len Coddwell hit Jim Potheary for a six with effortless ease to thwart the visitors.

Quilter in Fold

CALGARY (CP)—Veteran tackle Chuck Quilter has returned a signed contract to become the 24th player in the fold of the Calgary Stampeders.

Success Secret—Reach for Dinner

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The secret of how Bally Ache overcame runner-upitis and became one of the two strong favorites for Saturday's $125,000-added Kentucky Derby was revealed today as 13 three-year-old horses wound up their training with light workouts at Churchill Downs.

The smooth-striding bay with tendencies for holding on in face of defeat has been getting special exercises and training routine to make him taller, heavier and longer.

"Look at him reach for his feed," said Bud Biggerstaff, Bally Ache's groom. "I don't know whether it has helped but I make him stretch for it at every opportunity. And he likes to eat. So he'll just stretch that beautiful neck of his as far as is necessary."

NO LAGGING
This year Bally Ache, owned by Leonard Fruchtmann, has been out seven times for a record of five victories, two seconds and earnings of $211,800.

Not once has he bowed in a rich stake as he scored victories in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

The two Florida triumphs plus a romp over Venetian Way in last Saturday's Stepping Stone at Churchill have established Bally Ache as the second choice at 5 to 2 to C. V. Whitney's Tompion, 7-to-5 favorite.

And Bally Ache could well go postward as the co-favorite of the crowd of 100,000.

It was mighty difficult to find anybody in this festive city who would go beyond the two choices. But here and there was some support for Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park, seeking to become the first Canadian winner of the race, and Isaac's Blunberg's Venetian Way.

The field was reduced to 13 this morning when Henrijan developed a cold and was declared out of the running.

FIGHT RESULTS
LIVERPOOL—Tommy Tillis, Boston stopped Johnny Kidd, Scotland, 8 (light weight).
TOKYO—Hisao Kobayashi, 12½ Japan, outpointed Leo Espinosa, 12½, Philippines, 12.

Also signed were defensive halfbacks Don Vassos and Baz Nagle.

Back With B.C.
VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union today announced the signing of three holdovers from 1959, including place-kicking specialist Vic Kristopaitis, the club's top scorer last season.

Leonard is among those who must qualify sectionally.

Quilter in Fold
CALGARY (CP)—Veteran tackle Chuck Quilter has returned a signed contract to become the 24th player in the fold of the Calgary Stampeders.

Shawnigan Boys Keep Log
Shawnigan Lake Boys' School, piling up points in the field events, retained the Lonsdale Log in its annual dual track and field meet with Victoria High School Thursday.

The Log, emblematic of competition between the two schools, will rest at Shawnigan until the annual fall cross-country race, when it will again be up for the taking.

Shawnigan got a big push towards their win at Vic High with clean sweeps in the discus and shot put. They also scored a first in the 100-yard dash and picked up a covey of second and third-place finishes in other track events.

John Cliff of Vic High turned in a record-shattering time of 1:59.9 in the 880-yard race, breaking the former school mark by 3.4 seconds.

Bat Mark Doesn't Tell Roy's Value to Chisox

Chicago Continues Surge; Sievers Sets Plate Pace

By United Press International

Don't be fooled by that .219 batting average—Roy Sievers is adding some boom to the Chicago White Sox' 260m.

The American League champions are finally straightened out after their stumbling start, and with seven victories in their last nine games are in a virtual tie for first place with the New York Yankees. The Yankees actually lead by 15 percentage points but they're all tied up in the games behind column.

Sievers, acquired from Washington Senators for $125,000, has been swinging a productive bat. Despite his low batting average, he ranks second to Minnie Minoso on the club with 10 runs batted in and he's knocked in at least one run in five out of the White Sox' last six games.

That's the way it's been with Roy for most of his career—a low average hitter who drives in a lot of runs—and as far as White Sox' president Bill Veeck is concerned, that's fine with him.

Sievers returned to Washington for the first time since the big deal Thursday night and celebrated with a first-inning, two-run homer that paved the way for a 5-3 triumph over the Senators. Bob Shaw gained credit for his second win although he needed relief aid from Turk Lown in the eighth.

The victory enabled the White Sox to remain one game ahead of the third-place Cleveland Indians, who beat the Baltimore Orioles, 11-6, in the only other American League game.

PIRATES PAD LEAD
Pittsburgh Pirates increased their National League lead to two games with a 9-7 triumph that spoiled Lou Boudreau's debut as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Cincinnati Reds shaded San Francisco Giants, 4-3; Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Milwaukee Braves, 4-3, and Philadelphia Phillies topped the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1.

Tito Farncom, hottest hitter in the majors at present, drove in four runs with a homer and two doubles to lead a 15-hit Cleveland attack that also included three hits each by Harvey Kuenn and Woody Held.

Wynn Hawkins won his third game for the Indians although he left the game in the seventh inning after being struck by a freak liner off Jim Gentile's bat. He was not believed seriously injured.

MAYS MUFFS TWO
Francona, who hit .363 last season, has driven in seven runs and made eight hits in his last 11 appearances at the plate for a .727 pace.

Bill Virdon's ninth-inning triple drove in two runs that broke a 7-7 tie and snapped the Pirates' two-game losing streak. Cubs had built an early 7-2 lead but the Pirates tied the score in the seventh with the aid of Roberto Clemente's three-run homer.

Rookie Fred Green gained his second win for the Pirates.

Vada Pinson stole second and third bases and then scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning as Cincinnati's Bob Purkey beat the Giants for the first time in two seasons—Orioles' Cepeda homered and Willie Mays hit two triples for the Giants, but Willie also committed two errors.

World series hero Larry Sherry pitched four shutout innings in relief and Bob Aspromonte finally won it for the Dodgers with a 10th-inning single. Don Demeter previously had homered for Los Angeles while Mel Roach and Hank Aaron hit homers for the Braves. The win was Sherry's second against three losses.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Youngsters like to run a motor boat on their own and this summer a lot of parents are going to have to decide when it is safe to let them do just that.

First the young sailor must learn the basic rules of good boating and good judgment, and acquire respect for the water—then the parent can decide.

Surveys have shown that children often receive more careful schooling in seamanship than many boatmen who start as adults. As a result, they are frequently better sailors and less prone to have accidents, although there is always a danger that they will show a weakness when it comes to applying common sense.

As a rule, young people love speed and haven't enough experience to know its dangers. Fast boats in careless hands can be dangerous weapons. Any budding boatman who thinks only of speed or who displays a "know-it-all" attitude and refuses to stick to rules of good boating should be made to wait a long time for his ticket to travel alone.

The kids who learn and stick to the rules can be safe sailors at a surprisingly early age—if they can swim well.

Young or old, the new boatman should not be frightened by the water, but should always have a healthy respect for it.

Learning to swim is the first step for children. This can help them overcome any special fears. Until a child reaches school age at least, he should wear a life jacket when out in a boat—even if he can swim. The life jacket should also be standard equipment on the dock for the smaller fry, who can fall in at the most unexpected times.

From the start, a child should learn to keep his weight low in a small boat. Standing or moving while erect can unbalance a hull and cause it to tip quickly and toss an occupant overboard.

Most young sailors start by handling small craft. These are especially likely to tip over. By always stepping down to the center of the boat, by staying seated amidships or holding the gunwale and keeping weight low when shifting position when it is underway, the potential skipper shows he has learned an important lesson.

Boatman Responsible for Own Wake

Once you can entrust a boat to a youngster, keep at least half an eye on him.

Many serious accidents are caused when boatmen, fully grown and presumably smart, go off by themselves and manage to fall into the briny when nobody is around.

Watch the child at the tiller. Does he open up the outboard motor and try to go too fast? Explain that speed causes waves which can capsize small boats at anchor, or cause larger boats to roll at the dock and break accessories or damage paintwork. Make sure he knows that at high speed a fast turn can cause him to capsize in his own wake, that it is necessary to travel slowly in swimming areas, and that he can recognize a skin-diver's flag.

A boatman is legally responsible for his own wake and the damage it might cause. Slow speeds around harbors and wharves and reasonable speeds beyond require the kind of self-control it often takes longest to develop.

By going slowly at first, you and your little yachting pal can learn how to approach a dock without banging into it or other craft—boats have no brakes—and how to manoeuvre in tight quarters without collisions.

It's a long summer and it can be loaded with pleasure afloat for sailors of all ages. But the sea plays no favorites and an accident caused by lack of proper training can mean sorrow lasting long after the summer is gone.

Dib Noble will probably go to the post as the favorite when the Vancouver Island trap championship shoot is staged Sunday at Victoria Golf Club.

Noble was busting birds in great style last weekend in the Lower Mainland Gun Club's spring shoot. Dib cracked 98 of 100 in the all-bore skeet event and then took the three-way shoot-off with a perfect 25.

Sunday's shooting will be held in four classes. It starts at 10 a.m. and spectators are invited to watch the trigger experts at the Metchosin Road layout.

Sailors Run Wild Against Pro-Pats

With Terry McLaren around, who needs anybody else?

McLaren, pitching for Navy in the Heywood Avenue Men's Softball League, helped the Tars whale the tar out of Pro Pats, Thursday, 21-2.

McLaren, not giving his fielders very much work, struck out 15 of a possible 21 men.

The Navy hurler also did his bit at the plate, smashing a single and a three-run homer, two of a total of 18 Navy hits.

George Spicer also had a home run and two singles.

Bombers Like Burr

WINNIPEG (CP)—Burr Davis, a 23-year-old import line-man who showed great promise before being injured at the start of the 1959 football season, is returning for another tryout with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Access Problem Tough, Game Federation Told

KELOWNA (CP)—Recreation and Conservation Minister Westwood said here access is the most pressing problem facing the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs.

He spoke Thursday to 150 delegates at the federation's annual convention. The convention ends Saturday.

"Whether it deals with hunting or fishing or other outdoor recreational activities, access to lakes, rivers or other areas still is the big problem," said Mr. Westwood.

The minister said following last year's convention in Penikese he recommended a "ministers' committee" be formed to deal with the problem "and got direct results."

The committee has canvassed the "whole question of access in a general way and it was found to be highly complicated with complex ramifications."

Further committee meetings to discuss the findings and the recommendations now are in progress.

The recommendations of the committee, when summarized, will be given to the cabinet ministers' committee and I expect to happen in the near future.

"I am as anxious as you are to find solutions to the problems of access and I will do everything in my power to expedite these solutions."

Mr. Westwood said the biggest accomplishment of the last year has been the change of relations between the sportsman and the department.

The change came about partly as a result of a monthly bulletin, from the department, which gives sportsmen an informative picture of what is going on.

Speaking of hunting, Mr.

Westwood said that last season was the highest on record with 12,000 moose and 61,000 deer being taken.

Hunting pressures were up approximately four per cent with 115,000 resident hunters in the field.

The main effort of the fish and game branch will be to obtain "the greatest amount of hunting success for the greatest number of hunters in the province," Mr. Westwood said. During 1960 the department will undertake an intensive control program for wolves in the Prince Rupert, Hartley Bay Terrace area and also along the Alaska Panhandle from the Nass River north to the middle Stikine River.

Dealing with fishing, the minister said the branch is planning to carry out heavy stocking of rainbow trout in the Similkameen River this summer. Eastern brook trout will be stocked in lakes in the Cariboo during the year.

FIFTH TIME

Wings' Gordie Howe Named Most Valuable

MONTREAL (UPI)—Gordie Howe, brilliant right-winger with Detroit Red Wings who has won more National Hockey League trophies than any other player in history, today was named winner of the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player for a record fifth time.

The 32-year-old native of Floral, Sask., considered the greatest all-around performer in the game, was a 2-1 winner over young Bobby Hull, Chicago's league scoring champion and all-star left-winger. Howe, who will receive $1,000 in addition to the MVP Trophy, polled 59 points in each half of the balloting to wind up with 118 points. Hull had 55 and his teammate, goalie Glenn Hall, was third with 44.

The closest any member of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens finished in the voting was Jean Beliveau, who polled 28 points.

Trailing Howe, Hull and Hall in the voting were: Beliveau, 28; Bert Olmstead, Toronto, 27; Bronco Horvath, Boston, 20; Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, and Doug Harvey, Montreal, 7; Allan Stanley, Toronto, 4; Andy Bathgate, New York, last year's winner, and Henri Richard, Montreal, 3; Bob Pulford, Toronto, Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal and Doug Mohns, Boston, 1 each.

Mat Queens Retain Title

Laura Martinez and Princess Tona Tomah are still the holders of their tag team wrestling "world championship."

They out-grappled Lorraine Johnson and Milly Stafford, two falls of three, to retain their title at Memorial Arena, Thursday.

In the semi-main event, Ripper Leone was disqualified for making threatening gestures at referee Dave Pye, giving Danno McDonald the victory.

Eric von Froelich and Ed Sullivan struggled to a draw in the opening bout.

About 1,600 fans witnessed the matches.

SPLIT FOR UBC

SEATTLE (AP)—University of British Columbia split a baseball double-header with Seattle Pacific Thursday, winning the opener 4-2 and dropping the second game 8-5.

CONFIDENT JOHANSSON 'KNOWS HOW'

NEW YORK (AP)—World heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson arrived by air from Europe Thursday night and predicted he would retain his crown in the battle against Floyd Patterson June 20 at the Polo Grounds.

"I am more confident this time than before because I know now exactly how I will fight," he said.

The Swedish fighter went to Grossinger, N.Y., today to set up training camp.

His father and mother are already in this country and will be at the camp, he said. His fiancée, Birgit Lundgren, will arrive shortly.

Staff Cutback Ordered As Taxes Go Up 8.5%

Saanich council has ordered staff reductions after striking a 39.19 mill rate in urban District 61 and a 41.55 in the rural District 63—increases of about 8½ per cent over last year.

The rate is up 3.4 mills in District 61 from last year and 3.55 mills in District 63.

Council, meeting in committee Thursday, decided to save $30,000 by reducing staff as a means of cutting the 1960 budget.

It will mean that five to eight employees will lose their jobs.

Council instructed Reeve George Chatterton and comptroller-treasurer John Tribe to make the staff cuts in whatever departments they felt could stand reductions.

The new mill rate means the average property assessed at $4,000 will pay about $13.50 more.

Reeve George Chatterton said he was satisfied council had done its best to reduce the budget.

"The tax increases are beyond our control," he said. "The mill rate for schools in Districts 61 and 63 went up 1.16 and 1.31 respectively. Then there was a half-a-mill for parks. The rest is for general expenditures."

The reeve said it was a "tighten your belt budget," and some services would be reduced as a result.

"So if we get complaints from residents that their gravel roads have not been sprayed or tarred this year, we won't be able to do anything about it," he said. "We haven't got the money."

Council's aim was to reduce the budget without interfering with projects necessary to take care of the needs of the expanding population.

The reeve and Coun. Stanley Murphy disagreed with council over shifting $25,000 from surplus revenue to general revenue.

"If you do this it is like a board of directors declaring a dividend for shareholders and doing nothing to protect the future of the company," said Coun. Murphy. "This is just fancy bookkeeping."

A proposal that council cut its $40,000 donation to Royal Jubilee Hospital in half was defeated, after Coun. Murphy said it would only be deferring a responsibility until next year.

Council also decided to continue setting aside $30,000 for the future building of a new municipal hall.

"This practice of asking ratepayers at the last moment to approve a huge money bill for something we need is no good," said the reeve. "We should save for major projects, instead of borrowing money at high interest rates."

'Spiritual, Cultural Bankruptcy'

Victoria architect John Di Castri said Thursday present-day suburban housing here points "all too well to our spiritual and cultural bankruptcy."

He told the Rotary Club small houses, gradually devouring of "what remains of

Traffic Safety Quiz No. 2

Can you find 10 traffic hazards in this picture?

Look sharp! This quiz checks more than the acuteness of your vision. It also tests your judgment of what's right and wrong in this night traffic scene. Look again—then rate yourself against the list. But keep in mind that perceiving a traffic hazard is not enough. A good driver is always prepared to take instant action to avoid trouble.

Like all good citizens, Shell is interested in safety. We urge you to be alert, drive carefully, know the rules—and obey them. Remember: about 75% of all accidents are caused by the driver—not the car.

(Each hazard is located by letter and by number. For example, J6 indicates the location of the people in the lower center of the picture where lines from J and 6 would cross.)

- 1 People wandering aimlessly in middle of street (J6, lower center)
- 2 Car parked illegally (H10, lower right)
- 3 Truck collecting garbage while in traffic lane (H8, lower right)
- 4 People stepping from in front of truck into traffic (H6, lower center)
- 5 People crossing against light (E6, center)
- 6 Car veering over the line to pass parked car (F5, center)
- 7 Car parked out from curb to pick up passengers (F4, center)
- 8 Headlight not operating on car (F4, center)
- 9 Car leaving parking lot area by entrance (F2, left center)
- 10 Car with blinding highway beams on (H4, left center)

(These are major hazards; there are others. If you found more than ten, congratulations!)

That's why Shell says: Your Car Has Built-in Safety—YOU!

Firestone Tire Fortune Heir Suicides

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—Harvey S. Firestone III, brilliant, crippled 32-year-old heir to the Firestone Rubber fortune, plunged to his death from his 20th storey room at the swank Havana Hilton Hotel Thursday night, police said.

The police listed the death as an apparent suicide.

Firestone, who was confined to a wheelchair, registered at the hotel yesterday afternoon, accompanied by his male nurse, William J. Didas, 44, and a cousin, David Morgan Firestone.

Though he was married, and the father of a 1½-year-old girl, his family was not with him.

Didas, who had cared for Harvey for the last 10 years, told police that after taking a shower, he walked into the room and saw that his ward was missing.

Danger Posed By Hypnotic Medical Use

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A Canadian doctor warns that so many untrained doctors are using hypnosis that there is danger "it will once more be relegated to the quacks."

Dr. Bernard E. Raginsky of Montreal, North American president on clinical hypnosis for the Pan-American Medical Association meeting here, said that if properly handled by capable and trained men, hypnosis will find "its useful and permanent place in medicine."

He said it can best be used in the field of internal medicine. Its use in mental rehabilitation needed more study.

"Hypnosis, because it is such a complex tool, should not be used when simpler methods are found to be adequate," he added.

Dr. Louis Kosminsky of West New York, N.J., told the congress that "hypnosis has come of age" and is fully recognized "as a medical tool in its own right and not as a subject of other fields of medicine."

But Raginsky said:

"During the last few years, interest in hypnosis has been developed at an explosive rate. If it continues at this pace, and it appears that it will—there is a probability that hypnosis will once more be relegated to the quacks, as it has been so many times before during its periodic rise and fall in favor and out of favor in medicine."

He said only well-trained doctors should use hypnosis, and then only in specific cases.

'Tourists Don't Berate Discount'

More of an Issue Among Canadians Than Americans Says Chamber Group

Discount of U.S. coins is more of an issue among Canadians than it is among American tourists, Victoria Chamber of Commerce Tourist Trade group agreed Thursday.

THEY'LL USE GASLIGHTS IN SEATTLE

A strong plea for retention of the city's cluster lights was made Thursday by restaurant operator Stan Booker.

He told Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group the clusters are needed if Victoria is to retain some of its character and charm.

Mr. Booker said his feelings for the clusters were strengthened when he learned on a recent trip to Seattle that the American city plans to install gaslights on certain downtown streets.

"I have no objection to additional lighting where needed," said Mr. Booker, "but it is extremely important that the cluster lights be maintained."

'Must Stop Scrapping' Says Lane

The nucleus of Victoria's tourist trade industry was urged Thursday to stop spreading their advertising dollars thin and to concentrate on promoting tourism through one agency—Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"We have to stop scrapping among ourselves," chairman Sam Lane told tourist trade group members.

"Not enough tourists are coming to Victoria and the Island. We should whittle our spending on individual folders and put the money where we can get the most out of it—with the Publicity Bureau."

The bureau, he said, could do a concentrated selling job in distant American centres which he felt would have more impact than individual promotion.

"If we pool our promotion dollars and let the bureau do the job, it will save us money and it will earn us more money than we are now realizing."

Bid Made to Free Would-Be Assassin

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The evening newspaper Die Vaderland published a report Wednesday that plotters have tried to spring David Pratt from the jail where he is held for wounding Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd in an assassination attempt April 9.

Vaderland said police removed Pratt, a well-to-do white farmer, from Johannesburg after plans for freeing him were discovered. It was reported a plane was held ready, Vaderland added.

Mountie to Guard Statue of Queen?

Attorney General Robert Bonney has politely denied a request to have a Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable parade in Victoria solely for the benefit of American visitors.

Tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce was told Thursday Mr. Bonney rejected its request on the grounds the RCMP is a "working police force."

NO ISSUE

He criticized a Victoria newspaper editorial which "attempted to make an issue where none exists."

A department store official said U.S. coins are becoming more rare every day.

When Canadian banks announced two weeks ago they would discount U.S. coins by 2 per cent more than the discount on paper money, eight out of 10 coins received were U.S.

"Now the ratio is about one U.S. coin to every eight Canadian."

Group chairman Sam Lane said he had experienced taken annoyance by Americans whose currency he discounted.

But, he said, a local resident became incensed when she received an American five-cent piece in change. She demanded a Canadian coin instead and was given one, Mr. Lane said.

Court Hears Damage Suit Over Dredge

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada reserved judgment Thursday in a damage action arising from the sinking of the dredge Townsend in the Fraser River, below New Westminster, on March 14, 1957.

The dredge sunk after it was in collision with a tug owned by the Vancouver Tug Boat Company, Limited.

Marwell Equipment, Limited, owner of the dredge, sued the tug boat company in the Exchequer Court of Canada for damages of $981,596. The Exchequer Court found the tug boat company liable but reduced the damages to $21,246.

Marwell Equipment asked the Supreme Court to rule that it is entitled to the larger figure.

Ken Lowndes told the group a later application might be successful if the group can show the RCMP is needed to guard the Queen's property. In Vancouver, he said, a scarlet-coated mountie is on duty at the Bank of Canada.

Said one member: "Well, how about having the RCMP guard the Queen's bust in Beacon Hill Park?"

NEGROES IN PEACEFUL PROTEST

SCOT WANTED —MUST HAVE KNOBBLY KNEES

American tourists will again be met at city wharves by a piper this summer. But whether the piper is pert Nora Donaldson who has handled the task in recent years or a brawny male Scot, preferably "with knobby knees" remains to be seen.

Delighted with Miss Donaldson's performance, Victoria Tourist Trade group Thursday pondered the question of a male piper solely on the grounds that "a big, brawny Scot — the largest one available" might be exactly what visitors expect.

Chairman Sam Lane will make the final decision "in the light of monies received."

'Down With Segregation'

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Negro students marched on the South Carolina State House and the governor's mansion at Columbia Thursday in simultaneous demonstrations apparently aimed at proposed legislation dealing with a move to integrate public schools.

About 30 students chanted

"Down, down, down with segregation" while parading around the State House where the general assembly was meeting to consider the new legislation.

There was no violence and no arrests were reported.

PICTURE STORY OF ROYAL WEDDING

Colorful Ceremony In Abbey

Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones kneel before Archbishop of Canterbury at the altar of historic Westminster

Abbey during their wedding ceremony today at London. Colorful rites were witnessed by 2,000 guests.

PRINCESS, BRIDEGROOM HOLD HANDS

She's Not Mrs. Jones

LONDON (UPI) — No, it won't be just plain old Mrs. Armstrong-Jones after today.

The sister of Queen Elizabeth still will be known as Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret.

She is still a princess of the blood royal, still fourth in succession to the throne and will precede her husband on all state occasions.

When they are together she must be addressed first. She is usually called "Your Royal Highness" at the beginning of a conversation and "Ma'am" thereafter.

Since the title of princess ranks higher than that of "Mrs," she should not be directly addressed as Mrs. Armstrong-Jones.

Anyone introducing them would say: "This is Princess Margaret and her husband Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones."

MARGARET RIDES TO HER WEDDING

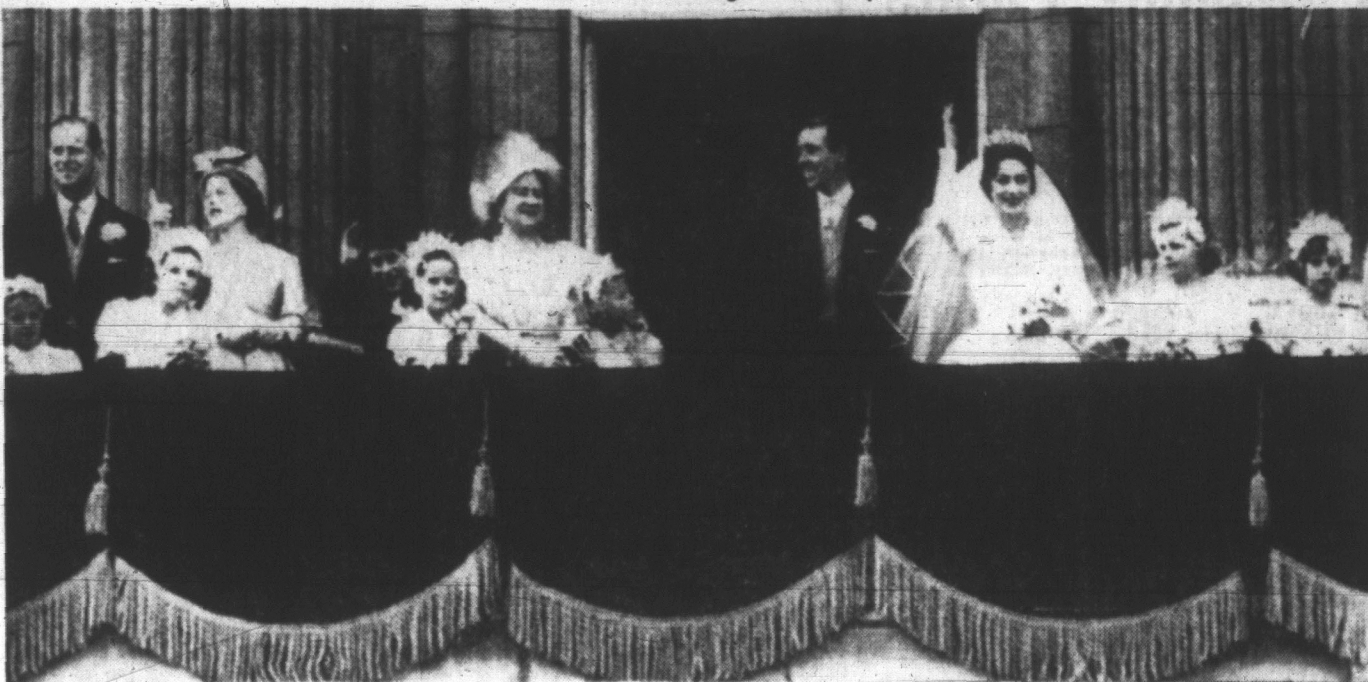

This is view thousands of Londoners got of Princess Margaret as she rode in her carriage to keep wedding date. Beside her is Prince Philip, who gave bride away.

Radiant Princess and Prince Philip arrive at Abbey to cheers of thousands, for start of marriage ceremony.

of St. Lawrence will determine whether a three-week-old boy is Canadian or Italian. One thing is certain, he is not Yugoslav, as are his parents. Antonio Rusk was born on the Italian liner Iripina within sight of the Canadian shore. His parents are Mile and Vesa Rusk, refugees from Yugoslavia brought here by the Canadian government. They had spent five days in an Italian refugee camp. Immigration and citizenship authorities are trying to find the position of the ship at the time of birth. If it was within Canadian territorial waters Antonio is a Canadian. If it was not he is Italian.

ESTRELITA NOT A SALAD

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Estrelita divorced comedy juggler Ismael Alfonso Haliss testifying:

"He was so stingy that when I ran out of cold cream, he told me to use olive oil. I told him I wasn't a salad and he would get very mad."

The 29-year-old entertainer, known professionally by the one name, charged cruelty in the suit heard Thursday. The couple married in 1956.

U.S. May Re-Examine Retaliatory Weapons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defence officials said today that Russia's claim it shot down a U.S. plane with an anti-aircraft rocket on the first try could have an important bearing on the free world's reliance on retaliatory weapons—if Russia has developed a radical new weapon.

However, they were skeptical that the Russians have developed any new super anti-aircraft weapon or anything which had not been anticipated by U.S. defence planners.

VICTIM, UNARMED

They pointed out that the plane believed shot down over Russian territory is presumed to have been an unarmed, non-combat weather plane that was not equipped to take counter-measures.

Radiophotos from Moscow showing the wreckage of the plane seemed to eliminate any speculation that a nuclear warhead was involved. Defence officials also noted that the Russians did not give any details of the rocket other than to call it "a remarkable weapon."

In the absence of detailed information, U.S. officials assumed that if the plane was shot down with a rocket the Russians probably used an anti-aircraft missile they already had been known to possess.

Although these Russian anti-aircraft missiles have never figured in the news, they have been listed in technical journals and have been assumed to be roughly the equivalent of America's anti-bomber rockets such as the Nike.

18-MILE RANGE

The Soviet missiles are described as the T-6, a radar-directed rocket with a speed of 1,500 miles an hour and a range ceiling of 60,000; the T-7, a high-altitude rocket with inertial guidance; and the T-8, a target-seeking anti-aircraft missile with infra-red sensing equipment. The T-8 is credited with a speed of 1,500 miles an hour and a range of 18 miles. Serious diplomatic considerations were raised by the Soviet declaration that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev personally had ordered the hostile missile shot just 10 days before the summit conference was scheduled to get underway in Paris, May 16.

Some defence authorities raised the question of how effective U.S. deterrent power—based on jet bombers armed with nuclear weapons—would be if the Soviet Union has an effective guided missile anti-aircraft system in operation.

MARK HUB CAPS

VANCOUVER—City police have suggested that motorists scratch their name and address on the hub caps of their cars. This, they say, is the best way to be sure of recognizing the caps if they are stolen, then recovered. Last month, 176 hub caps were reported stolen.

Mr. K. Ordered Plane Downed

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Andrei A. Grechko told the Supreme Soviet today that the American plane knocked down May 1 was destroyed on the first shot by a "remarkable rocket" fired on the personal orders of Premier Khrushchev.

Grechko, who formerly commanded Soviet troops in Germany, charged that the American plane was making an "attempt to probe our defences and test our readiness to give devastating repulse to an aggressor."

He said rocket forces such as that which shot down the American plane have "become the main component of our armed forces."

"Separate rocket units have been set up with their own command and separate organizational structure."

Red Star today published a photograph of the wreckage of the plane. The defence ministry newspaper also gave some details of the incident, but made no mention of the pilot.

DAWN ALARM

Red Star gave this account: An anti-aircraft defence unit was alerted by an alarm signal just at dawn on May 1.

"When radio operators received the first reports about the course of an unknown plane which had entered Soviet territory from the south, it became increasingly clear with every passing minute that the plane was an alien machine and that its intentions were hostile."

The plane was flying at a "very great altitude" and at a speed of approximately 540 miles an hour.

"The engagement was brief and it was soon learned that the intruder was brought down. The population of nearby villages helped to locate the wreckage quickly."

Unwanted Infant Son Given to U.S. Woman

BRIGHTON, Eng. (AP) — Dry-eyed and unmoved,

Yvonne Moore Wednesday night handed over her unwanted 11-day-old son to the American wife who hopes to adopt him.

"I know you will look after him and love him more than I ever could," she told 38-year-old Gladys Simon of New York, who flew here to collect the baby.

Mrs. Moore, 39, and married 20 years, claims she's too old now to start a family. Her husband, a bus driver, quit his job because of the neighbors' criticism of their desire to get rid of the baby.

British-born Mrs. Simon will stay six months in this country to complete the legal process of adoption.

The baby will be christened Francis after Mrs. Simon's husband.

Mrs. Moore took a final peek at her son and sighed: "I don't know why it is but I no more feel his mother than any woman in the street."

"I never want to see him again—the farther he goes the better it will be. To me he would just be 24 hours work a day."

The Navy Looks After Its Own—And (Shhh) Esquimalt

By JOHN MIKA

How did Esquimalt do it? That question has puzzled many this week as the smallest municipality in Greater Victoria bucked the trend, here and across the nation, by averting any increase in its mill rate.

The answer seems to be that the navy looks after its own, albeit in the best traditions of the silent service. But some Esquimalt officials say it is a toss-up whether the naval base helps or hinders municipal ratepayers.

Despite the arguments over this point, the fact remains that Victoria's mill rate went up by three to 52 per cent, while Esquimalt's rose only 1.1 per cent. Esquimalt remains at last year's 39-mill level.

A comparison of budget figures between the biggest and smallest components, which have finally fixed their 1960 budgets, is revealing.

Victoria's total budget approached $9,400,000 this year, while Esquimalt's rose slightly to $1,100,000.

The most significant figure between the two is the total of grants and contributions made by senior governments and their agencies to the municipal revenue.

For Victoria, the figure for 1960 is estimated at $1,638,708, almost four times the $451,000 estimated by Esquimalt.

But these figures mean that Victoria obtains only 17 per cent of its total revenue from the senior governments, while Esquimalt gets 41 per cent—more than $2 out of every $5 spent by the municipality comes from outside sources.

Most of this represents the $270,000 paid in lieu of taxes by the federal government on its naval establishment in Esquimalt, much higher than the $114,341 payment to Victoria on federal properties in the city.

What the navy base is to Esquimalt, the Legislative Buildings are to the city. The only difference between the two is that the provincial government has refused to pay any grants in lieu of taxes for services provided to its property.

This refusal costs the city about $300,000 annually in lost potential revenue on the provincial properties which it still has to provide with municipal services, fire and police protection.

If the province treated the city as well as the federal government does by paying grants in lieu of taxes, Victoria ratepayers would not have faced any mill rate increase this year either.

(The provincial government contends that its $200,000 annual Capital Improvement District Commission payments help make up for this situation.)

(But the city points out that much of the CIDC funds have been spent in outside areas like Esquimalt, although they "don't contribute a nickel in municipal services to the provincial property in the city.")

The navy also helps Esquimalt ratepayers quietly by providing virtually all their fire protection.

This reflects itself in the $87,400 police and fire budget which accounts for only 7.9 per cent of Esquimalt's total spending for 1960.

Victoria, on the other hand, has to spend $1,275,241, or 13.57 per cent of its budget, to provide both police and fire services.

(One contributing factor in the difference, although not large in the over-all protective budgets, is the fact that city-uniformed services received an 11 per cent wage boost this year, while their Esquimalt counterparts got only 5 per cent.)

City officials also point to more intensive public works and parks programs than those in Esquimalt, adding that while Victorians may pay more proportionately they also get more in services.

Esquimalt officials counter that the navy is not the sugar daddy others make it out to be.

They point out that the naval establishment occupies almost one-third of municipality's total land area. Actual tax levies on this large chunk of land and improvements would be considerably higher than the grants paid in lieu of taxes.

However, they concede that if the naval area was developed as private property, the municipality would have to spend more money on roads, schools and other services.

B.C. to Hold Talks With Alaska, Yukon

Government Heads To Air Problems

A conference of heads of government of Alaska, the Yukon and British Columbia will be held in Victoria July 19, Premier Bennett announced today.

He said a detailed agenda is being prepared.

"We shall consider common development problems and all matters affecting the three jurisdictions. We shall take the large view of all these things, remembering that every road helps other roads and no city can be prosperous without helping other cities."

The premier said he himself will head the B.C. delegation at the Victoria conference with the support of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

Deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace and Dan Ekman, the premier's executive assistant, will also serve on the B.C. committee and attend the conference.

Governor William A. Egan

Union Blamed As PGE Ends Meal Service

Meal service has been dropped by the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway because of a "mandatory" labor attitude coupled with drastic reduction in passenger business.

A PGE spokesman told the Times today the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport, and General Workers demanded that two attendants be employed to serve meals on each car, regardless of the number of passengers to be served.

"It was simply uneconomical to carry on meal service," he said. "The passenger business has declined drastically over the past two years."

EXPERIMENTAL

He said the meal service was started on an experimental basis. For an extra $3, a passenger travelling from Vancouver to Prince George was entitled to a reserved seat plus meals and coffee en route, including breakfast, lunch and dinner.

"We were losing too much money," the spokesman said. "When the union demanded two attendants per car regardless of the number of passengers, the only thing we could do was drop the service."

Official notice of termination of the meal service was made by general manager Joseph Broadbent. He said operating schedules will not be changed and PGE trains will make meal stops.

ASSEMBLY PLANT

Discussing his trip to Britain starting May 22, the premier said he would like to see plants installed in B.C. for the assembly of British cars.

"That would be a magnificent lead in creating industry and employment in this province."

Mr. Bennett said he will try to attract more British capital to B.C. during his visit, but not for any specific purpose such as the Peace River power project.

"I shall of course talk B.C. wherever I go and I shall point out the advantages of setting up new industries and plants in this enviable part of the world. Not that this will be a hard-selling drive. It is firstly a goodwill visit and we hope to buy more from Britain."

NEW ZEALAND WOMAN HERE

6,000-Mile Trip To Enjoy Gardens

A New Zealand woman, who "just missed" Victoria's Spring Garden Festival three years ago, returned here this week so she could visit some of the city's most beautiful private gardens.

Mrs. Evelyn R. Miller of Kopuoranga, Masterton, owner of a large cattle and sheep ranch, said today the festival is worth the 6,000-mile trip.

"Your gardens, large and small, are exquisite," she said. "You should make them wider known. We have nothing like them in New Zealand."

She praised Victoria gardeners for the way they had made use of the natural outcrop of rocks for landscaping, and for preserving and planting trees around their homes.

Three years ago, Mrs. Miller picked up a brochure on the Spring Garden Festival just as she was returning to her native land after visiting British Columbia and parts of the United States.

"I was impressed and decided to return to Victoria to see the gardens," she said. "I timed my present trip to take in the festival."

Mrs. Miller, who is also interested in natural flora, plans to visit Thetis Lake Park to see the native plants of south Vancouver Island.

"New Zealand may not have beautiful gardens as you have," she said. "But we have a rich, natural flora." Victoria is assured plenty of publicity from Mrs. Miller. She is taking back with her colored slides of the gardens and landscapes to show her people.

The festival which opened Thursday, continues today and Saturday. Gardens are only open to the public between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Bus tours are also available. They leave from 906 Government at 1 p.m.

Saturday visits will be to gardens of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Ahier, 1233 Palmer; Mrs. W. C. Woodward, 7764 West Saanich; W. J. Blair, All Bay Road; and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hamill, 8337 Patricia Bay Highway.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The younger group of the Junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1.30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Prior Lake, Thetis Lake Road.

An unidentified man in serious condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital following a fall from the Point Ellice Bridge today at about 9.45 a.m.

Hospital authorities said he is suffering from multiple breaks and contusions.

City detectives could not say whether the man jumped or not but are understood to have interviewed a witness to the incident.

Rueben McGinnis, 732 Meade, was fined $25 and $3 costs when he pleaded guilty in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday to a charge of failing to file his 1958 income tax.

The Esquimalt Lions Club has voted $500 from club funds towards the Victoria University Building Fund. It was announced today.

Several other local service clubs also contributed earlier.

There was one space left on the back of Frederick Thomas Bull's driver's licence Wednesday.

And when the Nanaimo driver appeared in Colwood RCMP court to plead guilty to speeding over 60 miles an hour, the court obligingly filled in the blank and suspended the licence.

Police said previous magistrate's endorsements all but covered Bull's licence. He was fined $25 and $3 costs.

SANDRA SMITH

14-Year-Old New Queen Of Esquimalt

Sandra Smith, 1127 Heald Avenue, has been selected as Esquimalt's May Queen.

The 14-year-old winner will be crowned May 20 at 6.30 p.m. in Kinsmen Gorge Park.

She will ride in the Victoria Day parade aboard the municipality's first float entry in the annual parade.

With her will be princesses Linda Bowbyes, 1052 Craigflower, and Sherry Bishop, 1056 Craigflower, and ladies-in-waiting Sharon Moran, 872 Cunningham, and Barbara Olsen, 322 Skinner.

70-FOOT TOTEM FOR SCOUTS

Mungo Masterpiece On Way to Ottawa

Another Mungo-Martin masterpiece of totemic carving left the west coast Thursday night for its permanent home in Ottawa.

The latest creation of the last of the totem carvers is 70 feet long, and was commissioned by the Boy Scouts B.C. Yukon provincial council. The pole will stand outside the new national scout headquarters, now being built in Ottawa.

The pole was carved at Thunderbird Park, and moved from here to Vancouver by barge.

Thursday night, two cranes loaded the pole, valued at $8,000, on two CNR flat cars for the 2,800-mile journey.

Carved from a cedar log cut on the west coast of Vancouver Island, the totem depicts six main figures—a grizzly bear, a

3,000 to Parade For Little League

A preview of the Victoria Day celebrations and parade two weeks from now will be given Saturday morning by nearly 3,000 children.

The occasion is the annual Little League baseball teams' parade through Victoria, signalling the official opening of this season's play.

The procession will be headed by Mayor Percy Scurren when it starts off at 10 a.m. from Government and Belleville Streets.

SPORTS CARS

Scattered throughout the platoons of marching players will be sports cars of the Victoria Motor Sports Club carrying Miss Victoria candidates.

Music will be provided by bands, including the Victoria Boys' group, Eagles' Band, Navy Cadets' Band and the PPCLI Cadets' Band.

The Victoria Girls' Drill Team will be there, in addition to the Eagles' Drill Team. The parade will have its own royalty too, the King and Queen of Little Leagues, Paul Knowles and Barbara Munro.

Both six years old, Paul lives at 930 Inverness, and Barbara at 290 Lascelles Crescent.

A Scottish note will be injected by piper Jamie Troy riding on the back of May Day musical "Brigadoon" car.

Junior Chamber of Commerce organizers expect that all twelve Little Leagues will be there plus contingents from Duncan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo and Ladysmith.

Route will go from the parking lot up Government to Yates, up Yates to Douglas, then down Douglas to Thunderbird Park.

The parade is part of the Jaycee sponsored Little League program started in 1951.

They're Logging 'Like '60' At City Parley

Industry integration, problems and techniques occupied the attention of 270 delegates and wives to the 15th annual Olympic Logging Conference today at the Empress Hotel.

In the past an occasion for logging company representatives from B.C. and western Washington to exchange problems and ideas with service equipment spokesmen, the 1960 conference has as its theme "Logging—Like '60!"

Delegates were told by retiring chairman Carroll Mercer of Quilcene, Wash., that the industry should watch costs to take full advantage of a predicted whopping increase in business in the next decade.

The coming of age of the war baby crop will mean a new demand for wood and wood products, said Mr. Mercer.

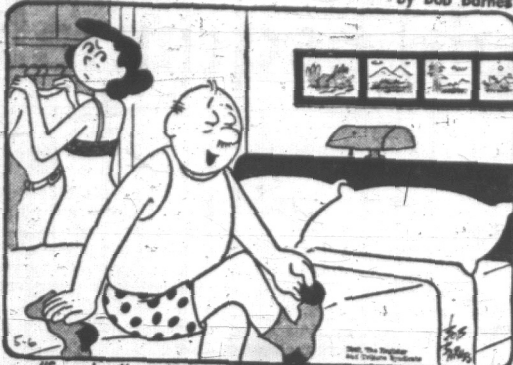

"But," he warned, "the industry faces heavy competition from the metals field. We must be sure we don't price ourselves out of the market."

Imported Gourmet Items Make Gifts for Mother

By PENNY SAVER

There's still time to get a little gift for Mother for May 8. If you've been wondering what to choose why not get one of the gourmet items that are available downtown? There are all kinds of delicacies that—good cook as she is—she'll really appreciate!

Marmalade made from West Indian limes has such a different tangy flavor that she'll love it on her breakfast toast. Imported from England, 12-ounce jars sell at 45 cents.

If, on the other hand, she prefers pancakes or waffles in the morning surprise her with a jar of fresh mountain blackberry syrup. Eleven-ounce jar sells for 89 cents. Syrup can also be used as a topping for ice cream and other desserts. Fresh apricot syrup can also be had at the same price.

Moisturized fruits are something Mother won't allow herself to splurge on and yet would thoroughly enjoy. Ones I've seen come from California and owner of store tells me that they'll never dry out—even if kept for 10 years! Included in selection of 14-ounce jars that are priced at 89 cents are black figs, Deglet Noor dates and light golden figs. Fruits have no sugar or sulphur added. This makes them an excellent item for diabetes sufferers.

Halibut season is here! Through an international agreement between United States and Canada fishing of this popular fish is restricted. Specific areas are set aside for fishing and when allotted poundage has been caught fishing is stopped so that halibut is conserved for future years.

First catch from local waters is in and you can get either slices or pieces at 50 cents a pound. (Actually all varieties of fresh fish are in good supply this weekend.)

Although beef and veal are still far from budget-priced, veal steaks are on "special" this weekend at 59 cents a pound. Other good buys are shoulder lamb chops at the same price, pork steaks at 49 cents a pound and boneless brisket which sells at 69 cents a pound.

Butcher gave me his wife's recipe for brisket. Season well with salt and pepper, place in a covered container on top of the stove, add water and bring to a boil, then simmer slowly for four hours. Butcher tells me his wife adds a garlic clove and bay leaf to the water and recommends dish as a meal "fit for a king."

For information on any of these items give Penny a ring at EV 2-3131.

DEAR ABBY

Gone But Not Forgotten!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband picked our eleventh anniversary to tell me he wanted a divorce. He said he was in love with another woman. I asked him to think of our two children (three and five) and he said they were young enough to forget him, and besides, HE grew up without a father and so could they.

He left his clothes, golf clubs, camera and everything he owns behind. All he took were the clothes on his back. He just deserted me. I have no idea who the woman is.

He's been gone 12 days. I had one postcard from him from a motel. I think he's lost his mind. I don't want to report it to the police because I don't want a lot of publicity. (I still have my pride.) How can I get him home quietly?

DEAR DESERTE: Your husband has legal responsibilities to you and the children even if he cares nothing about the moral ones. He can be located and brought home quietly "without a lot of publicity." Your best friend at this time is your lawyer. From what you say, your husband could be emotionally disturbed so don't jump to any conclusions.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother begged us to sign a loan so he could have a large wedding reception. We signed, then we didn't even get invited to the wedding. Their excuse was that it was going to be a fancy church deal and they hated to put us to the expense of renting or buying the gowns. (They suggested we put the money into a wedding gift instead. HAVE YOU EVER HEARD OF SUCH NERVE?)

My husband says he doesn't need an invitation to go to his own brother's wedding and we are going! I say he will have to drag me by the hair to get me there. Who is right?

NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

DEARNOT: I think you are right, but please don't insist on that kind of entrance. Tell your husband that everyone who is invited to a wedding, including brothers. These people appear to be so rude and inconsiderate. I can't imagine why you would want to bother with them.

DEAR ABBY: Our minister likes my coffee cake. When he's in the neighborhood he drops in and I serve him some with tea. When I see him coming, I rush around pulling all the pin-ups girls off the walls.

We have two sons (both in college) who are old enough to have pin-ups and they have decorated the place with them. I would be embarrassed to have the preacher look at them and me at the same time.

My husband says it is our home and if that's the way we live, it's dishonest to hide it. I say it is not dishonest to remove the pictures when the minister comes. Who is right?

MRS. F. J. M.

DEAR MRS. F. J. M.: There is nothing "dishonest" about making the place a little more presentable for the minister. Hold a family powwow and suggest that the boys keep their pin-ups in their own rooms.

Children Sing at Linen Shower

Four-year-old Deborah had a busy afternoon, Thursday.

Instead of playing on the swings in the spacious 14-acre grounds that surround her "home" at the B.C. Protestant Orphanage, Deborah took "time off" with many of the 54 children that live at the same address, to entertain guests attending the annual spring linen shower and tea sponsored by the Ladies' Committee of the Home.

Deborah was "end man" of the first row of the choir. Brown eyes shining, she sang with the rest and applauded when her friends entertained with duets and accordion solos.

Guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. Holder, and the past president, Mrs. W. Lums. Convener of the successful affair, which netted $390, besides many articles of household linen, was Mrs. N. Harwood.

Assisting Mrs. Harwood were Mrs. A. H. Adams, Mrs. J. Bannister, Mrs. G. Bergstrom, Mrs. W. R. Clark, Mrs. J. Collins, Mrs. W. Dinsmore, Mrs. M. H. French, Mrs. P. Mackereth, Mrs. T. McGimpsey, Mrs. J. C. Scott, Mrs. F. Shandley, Mrs. F. Lesley, Mrs. G. I. Warren, Mrs. A. Wieganski and Mrs. W. H. Moore.

Mrs. J. W. King received donations of linens and Mrs. S. J. Clack and Mrs. F. C. Dillabough handled cash donations.

Mrs. F. Shandley trained the youthful entertainers.

Travelers Feted

Mrs. Reginald A. Press and her daughter, Miss Barbara Press, have been widely entertained prior to their departure, Tuesday, for England. Miss Press, a Bank of Montreal staff member, has been appointed to the bank's London branch on Threadneedle Street. Mrs. Press will visit relatives while in England and return to her home on St. Ann Street sometime in July. Mrs. W. T. Pearson entertained recently in honor of Mrs. Press and her daughter at a buffet supper in her St. Ann Street home and Mrs. Frank Gilbert entertained at the tea hour in her home on Estevan Avenue last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Art Goff were hosts at a social evening in honor of Mrs. Press at their home on Baxter Avenue. Fellow members of the Oak Bay branch of the bank presented Miss Press with a handbag at a gathering arranged in her honor.

For Jean McCutcheon

Miss Jean McCutcheon, whose marriage to Mr. Jim Carvath takes place Friday evening, has been feted at several parties prior to her wedding. Mrs. J. Wren entertained at a surprise linen shower for Miss McCutcheon at her home on Kings Road. Wishing well, decorated in pink and white held gifts. Miss Linda Brown presented bride-elect with a gardenia and lily-of-the-valley corsage. Her mother, Mrs. R. McCutcheon, and groom-elect's mother, Mrs. R. Brown, received gift wrapped planters from Miss Karen Wren. Guests were Mrs. G. Parker, Mrs. D. Howard, Mrs. M. Adams, Mrs. R. Bendall, Mrs. R. Bickford and the Misses Roberta McCutcheon, Diane Kertoszki and Janie Wren. Giant replica of a wedding cake held gifts for Miss McCutcheon at a party shower given by Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Bickford at the latter's home on Simcoe Street. Miss Karen Wren presented a corsage of roses and heather to the bride-elect. Mrs. McCutcheon and Mrs. Brown received boxes of cut spring flowers. Invited were Mrs. Wren, Mrs. G. C. W. Bickford, Mrs. R. Chaney, Mrs. C. De Macedo, Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. M. Adams, Mrs. King, Mrs. R. Chornaby, and the Misses Roberta McCutcheon, Diane Kertoszki, Linda King, and Sandra De Macedo.

No Rhinestones, No Sequins on Bridal Gown Wide Diamond Tiara One Note Royal Splendor

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret was an all-white bride today in a beautiful dress of white silk organza and carrying a bouquet of white orchids.

The dress she wore for her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones probably was the simplest royal wedding gown ever in terms of embroidery and other trimmings.

Its only trimming was rouleau piping in the same white silk organza from which the whole dress is made.

This time royal dressmaker Norman Hartnell added no pearls, no rhinestones, no sequins.

The high standup neckline with a small V-front was piped with an organza rouleau which continued right down the centre front of the bodice.

IN THREE LAYERS
The skirt was made of three layers of organza cut into 12 panels set in unpressed pleats into the base of the bodice and joined by a fine rouleau piping which gave the effect of a stripe.

The entire hem of the dress, the end of the tight-fitting, full-length sleeves and the fine veil also were piped with organza rouleau.

The whole dress was mounted on a foundation of stiffened white tulle.

With it the tiny princess wore white crepe court shoes with white satin facings and 2½-inch heels.

Princess Anne and the seven other bridesmaids wore dresses which were replicas of the bride's first evening dress — the favorite of Margaret's father, the late King George VI.

OF ORGANZA

The dresses were of plain white silk organza, like the bride's, had little-girl bodices, short-cuffed sleeves and peter pan collars, tied with a blue ribbon bow.

Panel of broderie anglaise, slotted with pale-blue ribbons, fell from the narrow waist to the ground-length skirt.

Around the hem was a band of graduated pin-tucking, bordered with three rows of broderie anglaise.

The bridesmaids' headpiece was in the form of a halo, slightly higher in the centre and with a forward sweep over the ear and on to the cheek, in soft, white feathers.

They were made up of flowers, fashioned in white feathers, interspersed with white ribbon rosettes and groups of "trembling" crystal drops.

The bridesmaids' shoes were soft white kid court shoes with low kid-covered heels and white satin bows.

In the midst of royal splendor, only a wide diamond tiara blazing on her head distinguished Princess Margaret's bridal attire from that of other springtime brides.

The royal wedding dress was no surprise, for it closely resembled advance reports and

A high chignon was pinned on top of her own short hair, adding inches to her five-foot two inches. A veil of white illusion tulle sprang out on each side above the ears. It pulled back from the shoulders and fell to the floor.

Margaret's wedding bouquet was small and dainty, slightly crescent-shaped, of cymbidium orchids — white with a slight pink flush on the petals, lilies of the valley and stephanotis, with a few off-white odontoglossum orchids.

The Queen, who was pretty much of a bystander today, wore a turquoise blue lace gown with a bustle. She also wore pearls, a three-strand necklace and big pearl earrings.

The Queen Mother was attired in a long, slim white sheath of white and gold lame, with matching mink-trimmed sheath. Her jewels were diamonds — big dangling earrings and a sparkling medallion necklace.

Wedding Coiffure Secret; Chignon Used

LONDON (AP) — Sleepy-eyed but triumphant, hairdresser Rene Mouleard revealed the secret of Princess Margaret's hair-do at 6.30 this morning.

Couturier Norman Hartnell was not so lucky. The sketches he handed out this morning of the wedding dress confirmed that news leaks about the bridal gown more than a week ago were correct. But the wedding coiffure was a well-kept secret.

For the first time in her long social career Margaret chose a chignon, a mass of extra hair piled high on top of her head to give her added height.

Rene said he submitted seven sketches to the princess and she chose the only chignon. "I changed the angle of the chignon," he reported, "bringing it forward and reducing the height a little at the last minute."

Rene gave his royal client a shampoo, cut and set Thursday. All he had to do this morning before the ceremony was comb her hair and pin on the bun.

Beneath the chignon Margaret's hair swept up from the brow. Curls covered her ears and swept forward on her cheeks.

The coiffure was completed by a sparkling diamond tiara, about five inches high at the centre spray of large round diamonds. The wedding veil was pinned at each side.

FORMAL ATTIRE
The bridegroom, seldom out of slacks and sweater a few months ago, wore frock coat and striped pants. His flourish for the occasion was a white carnation.

Sunshine Yellow In Going-Away Ensemble

Margaret's going-away dress was of pale yellow silk chiffon, with the bodice cut on the bias and gently draped to a high neckline. Soft sleeves just covered the shoulders. The slim skirt was elaborately draped from low left to waist-high right. Two layers of the fine chiffon were used throughout.

Coat over the dress was of pure silk shantung, also in sunshine yellow. It was straight and loose, cut high at the neck and with a small upstanding collar set away from the neck. Inverted pleats on either side of the back of the coat gave a little bulk across the shoulder blades. Coat had three-quarter-length sleeves.

The Princess' hat was a tiered toque in pale yellow veiling, dotted with minute lover's knots in yellow chenille. Her shoes were of pale grey nylon mesh with a 2½-inch heel of matching calf.

SEE FOR YOURSELF—BEFORE AND AFTER

Saturday morning and any day after you can see the results of the fantastic Wunda Weve Torture Test. The clean half, washed by Carpetorium, is on display in Jordans window, beside the dirty half. Oil, dirt, sand, and mud have been ground into the rug by nearly 3,000 tires. Over 3,000,000 pounds have crushed its pile.

Swirls of fluffy whipped cream top delicious rhubarb tarts. Perfect for your next tea party.

Spring and Rhubarb Tarts Go Hand in Hand

"Pretty as a picture in spring" is an apt description for dainty rhubarb chiffon tarts, where flavor of strawberries mingles with that of fresh rhubarb in a setting of velvety whipped cream. None of your friends will guess the secret of this dessert: that these fluffy tarts are as easy to make as they are delicious to eat.

When the family can't agree on whether it will be rhubarb pie or rhubarb crisp, you can solve the dilemma by serving a combination of the two: a rhubarb crumble pie. This tasty sample features the butter in a cinnamon crumb topping, and a tangy rhubarb filling.

RHUBARB CRUMBLE PIE
One unbaked 9-inch pie shell, 3 cups raw rhubarb (cut in one-inch pieces), 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2-cup chilled butter, 1/2-cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 1/2-cup rolled oats.

Combine rhubarb, sugar, salt and tapioca. Set aside while preparing crumble topping. Combine flour and cinnamon in a bowl; cut butter in finely. Mix in brown sugar and rolled oats. Turn rhubarb mixture into prepared pie shell. Sprinkle crumble mixture evenly over rhubarb. Bake in a very hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 minutes; reduce oven temperature to 375 deg. F. (moderately hot) and continue to bake until rhubarb is tender—20 to 35 minutes longer. Serve warm or cold with whipped or sour cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

RHUBARB CHIFFON TARTS
Eight large baked and cooled tart shells, 2 cups raw rhubarb (cut in one-inch pieces), 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 (3-ounce) package strawberry-jelly powder, 1/2 cup cold water and 1/2 pint (1 1/2 cups) whipping cream.

Combine rhubarb, the 1/2 cup water and sugar in saucepan; bring to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cover and simmer until rhubarb is tender—about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add jelly powder and stir until dissolved. Stir in the 1/2 cup cold water. Chill until mixture just begins

Vows in Sooke Church

Gladioli, arum lilies, tulips and carnations decorated Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Sooke, for the afternoon ceremony uniting Miss Anne Maitland Graham and Robert William Martin. Rev. A. W. R. Ashley conducted service for daughter of Commodore F. M. Graham and Mrs. Graham of St. Feock, Cornwall, Eng., and son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Martin of Milnes Landing.

A classic parchment satin gown was worn by bride. Her veil was held by a headpiece of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. W. E. Martin gave her in marriage, in absence of her father.

Gold satin gown was worn by matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Duncan. She had a small floral and net headpiece and carried pale yellow carnations en bouquet.

John D. Martin was best man and ushers were C. R. Helme and W. J. Stephenson.

R. L. V. Germain proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Grouse Nest, Sooke.

Bride wore a silk shantung suit, small floral hat in lilac tone and matching accessories for a wedding trip to the mainland.

Membership Tea
A membership tea was given recently by the Catholic Women's League of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, in St. Patrick's School auditorium. Mrs. M. Romano, president, received the guests. Mrs. T. Jones was in charge of membership and Mrs. H. Spohn took tickets.

Presiding at the head table were Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, diocesan president; Mrs. J. A. McLellan, Mrs. B. T. Saunders, Mrs. B. Sails and Mrs. W. W. Brown. Floral arrangements were by Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. F. A. Fischer.

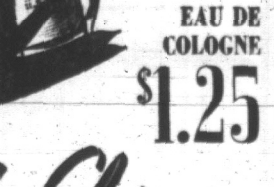

Servitors were Mrs. M. C. Hall-Patch, Mrs. H. D. Thomas, Mrs. L. Bawli, Mrs. J. H. Moreau and Mrs. J. J. Lawless. Convener was Mrs. R. Doyle.

Afternoon Branch, Christ Church Cathedral, open meeting Monday at 2.30 p.m., in Memorial Hall. Guest speaker, Mrs. H. Martin.

GIRL GUIDES

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Though Over 40, You Still Can Improve Your Figure

Q. "Is it possible to change the figure through exercise at the age of 41?"
A. Sure! You can distribute your weight more attractively with exercise.

Q. "I am 5 feet tall and have a small build. I hope you can help me. I usually weigh about 104 pounds but since the birth of my third child I now weigh 115 pounds. My baby is two months old. I never had trouble losing my pregnancy-weight before but this time I just don't go back to shape. My measurements are bust, 34 inches, waist 26 1/2 and hips 37. Most of my excess weight is in my hips and thighs. I had my children very close together. Maybe that has something to do with it. I had three children in four years."

A. You are not really so very much overweight—about eight pounds. I imagine that the difference you notice in your figure is as much due to lax abdominal muscles as to the extra pounds. As you know pregnancy stretches these muscles and every subsequent pregnancy makes them a little less elastic and strong. With pregnancies so close together you hardly had time to get them back into shape in between babies. Count your calories for a loss in weight and take hip-slimming and abdominal-firming exercises daily. Start in slowly and build up gradually. If you or any other reader wish to have these exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2 (abdominal) and leaflet No. 3 (hips). Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. "Please tell me where to measure for my bust measurement. Also how many inches below the hips do you measure for the correct hip measurement?"
A. Measure around the largest part of the bust, with or without a brassiere. Just be sure that you wear the same bra when you next measure. Also measure around the largest part of the hips, sideview, regardless of the distance beneath the waist.

Q. "I am going to ask a neurotic question. In using the passive exercise machine I notice that my face has gotten thinner, making me look older. My cheeks are deflated and lines have formed straight down my cheeks. Would you say a nice figure is worth having an older face? I shall look forward to an article saying that this must be my imagination."

A. It probably is, and you also have probably been dieting along with the use of the machine. Anyway, I think that there is a middle ground where the figure is attractive and the face not too thin. I always have thought that a woman looks younger as she grows older with about five pounds more than was ideal for her in younger years—not more than five though.

Sharman Douglas and jewel-totin' Merle Oberon will be Hollywood's representatives at Meg's wedding. Sharman's known Meg well for 13 years. . . . Gene (Bat Masters) Barry may head the "Destiny" company that will play a Las Vegas hotel. . . . Frank Sinatra's Clan isn't amused by Jerry Lewis' gags about 'em in his L.A. cafe act.

Eddie Fisher brought his mother from Philadelphia to Harkness Pavilion for coronary treatments. . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor wangled $100 a day expenses out of Arthur Murray for doing his TV show. . . . Frenchmen who went to the de Gaulle dinner sincerely complimented Gov. Rockefeller on his beautifully-spoken address in French.

Hugh O'Brien's taking a Wyatt Earp spectacular around the country, from Greensboro, N.C. to Fort Wayne, Ind., then playing the biggest fields and stadia, winding up with shoot-in. He privately calls it "Earpville". . . . At the Harwyn, TV producer Peter Arnel, with Ethel Merman; at El Morocco, her estranged husband, Bob Six, with Audrey Meadows. . . . Peter Lawford's here, with mustache, en route to Israel. . . . Meredith Willson, vacationing in Hawaii, wants to bring a "Music Man" company there. . . . Tommy Manville's visiting the cafes, ordering only coffee (and sprinkling $20 tips). . . . Singer Andy Williams is selling his Manhattan home, moving to Hollywood. . . . Abby Dalton (of the "Honey" TV'er) and Jack Smith haven't set the date, but they set the place—a California ski lodge. . . . Teenage summit meeting: Elvis Presley, Fabian and Frankie Avalon will meet next week in manager Bob Marucci's home.

EARL'S PEARLS: It is strange how many bad manners our friends suddenly acquire after we read a book on etiquette. —Jack Herbert.

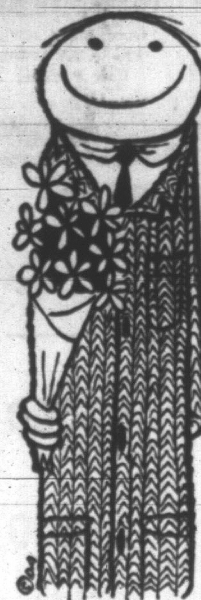

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Overheard in a TV producer's office: "We don't want any yes-men around here. Everybody agree?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A woman never knows what she wants till she can buy it on time payments.

Robt Q. Lewis suspects his uncle, who recently retired, won't be missed much. His boss gave him a testimonial party during a coffee break. . . . That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Alana Low, aged 12, of Quitman, Tex., for her question:

Are There Male and Female Snails?

Among the simple animals, there is no family life as we understand it. The tiny one-celled amoeba multiplies by dividing into two. The little blob of jelly simply becomes twins. There are no parents or grandparents and no amoeba dies of old age. With more advanced animals, two parents are required to produce a new generation. But only the most advanced animals have a family life as we know it.

The oysters, earthworms and snails are a lot more advanced than the amoeba. But compared with birds and cats, they are very simple animals indeed. Andy's readers learned that certain oysters spend some of their lives as males and some as females. Every earthworm is both a mother and a father at all times—and so is a snail.

If you want a litter of pet rabbits, you must start with a pair, one male and one female. But any two snails can produce baby snails—so long as the parents are of the same sort. After mating, the pair have no interest in each other and each goes its separate way. For snails are far too simple to have any sensitive emotions for each other or for anything else, including their offspring.

In time, each parent snail lays a batch of eggs. Each snail is mother to its own eggs and father to the eggs laid by the other snail. And neither of them could care less. Each tiny egg is in a capsule encased in the slippery, silvery trail left behind as the parent snail crawls over the ground.

It is interesting to examine a number of snail trails with a pocket lens or a magnifying glass. The tiny eggs are clear as glass. You can see the tiny snail shell which begins to grow even before the snail hatches. If your magnifier is powerful enough, you can see the tiny embryo's heart slowly beating.

Baby Eats Own Egg Case

As soon as it hatches, the baby snail eats its own egg case. This provides the tiny body with lime which is used to strengthen the shell. After that first meal, the shell darkens and loses its glassy look. The baby snails, too small to be noticed, then crawl off to find a meal of molds and mildew. They will be fully grown in about two years. Those that survive will then be ready to hand on life and each will become both a mother and a father.

At full speed, a grown snail

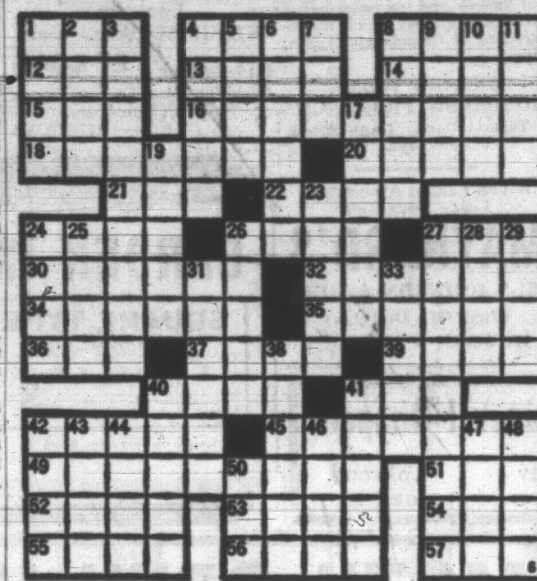

Governor-General Turns Sod for Big Anglican College

SASKATOON (CP)—Governor-General Georges P. Vanier Wednesday broke the first sod for Emmanuel College, the largest Anglican theological college in Canada. A group of about 300 persons, Emmanuel faculty, alumni, students, university personnel and members of the public—witnessed the ceremony, held behind the old college building in chilly, windy weather.

Date for start of construction work on the new $1,250,000 college has not been set but is expected soon. Emmanuel College is one of the oldest buildings on the campus of the University of Saskatchewan.

The sound barrier is a big problem for speeding airplanes. As the plane reaches the speed of sound, a dense wall of air builds up ahead of it—a wall which must be crashed and scattered. The sound barrier got its name because the air cannot get out of the way of a plane traveling at the speed of sound. In designing and flying planes, this significant speed has been given a name. It is called Mach 1.

Mach numbers are given to fast airplane speeds rather than miles per hour. They indicate the ratio of the speed of sound to the speed of the plane. Mach 2 is twice and Mach 3 is three times the speed of sound. Through ordinary air, the speed of sound is about one mile in five seconds, but it varies with temperature.

B.C. LABOR TO SHUN SOUTH AFRICAN GOODS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 130,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor Thursday ordered its 263 member unions to have nothing to do with South African produce or products.

Secretary Pat O'Neal announced the instructions and added that the federation will make representations to the B.C. government on South African wines and liquors on the shelves of Government Liquor Control Board stores.

The boycott, in protest against South Africa's racial policies, was requested of all Canadian unions at the recent Canadian Labor Congress convention in Montreal.

PROMOTED — Marshal M. V. Zakharov, 62, former commander of Soviet troops in East Germany, is the new chief of general staff for Soviet army and navy. He replaces Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, who has been reported in ill health. (AP Wirephoto.)

Reds Undercut West

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Soviet Union has offered to sell India petroleum products and crude oil at prices which will undercut by at least 10 per cent those of Western oil companies now operating here, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

Route of Highway Studied To Miss Vernon, Kelowna

Times News Services

VERNON — The provincial government is seeking an alternative route for Highway-97 on the west side of Okanagan Lake, to bypass both Vernon and Kelowna.

A 12-man survey crew has set up office here and is working on a survey from O'Keefe south. A similar crew is located at Kelowna, working north from Westbank.

Object of the survey is to find the best right-of-way for a standard-width highway from O'Keefe Ranch to Westbank. The present road is considered narrow and dangerous in places.

SELF DEFENCE PLEA

VERNON — Defence lawyer Robert Gilhooly of Kelowna told an assize court jury Thursday that evidence submitted in an attempted murder charge was consistent with self-defence.

He was summing up in the trial of Andrew Manuel of Westbank Indian reserve, who is alleged to have caused grievous bodily harm to his brother, Joe, during a pre-dawn drinking party last Sept. 30.

The jury was expected to return a verdict today.

CONTROLS NEEDED

VANCOUVER — The leading power authority for the B.C. Progressive Conservatives said here Thursday more and more control of natural resources is necessary in this province.

Dr. D. F. Kidd told a meeting of West Point Grey Kiwanis: "This control to keep us from bumping into each other is the most important group of problems facing the people of B.C. How we handle this will be the measure of success."

Power was the most important resource problem, he said, and public or private power, perhaps both, still need "polishing."

COURSE FOR HOTELIERS

VERNON — A two-day management training course for managers, supervisors and key employees of hotels, motels and restaurants will be conducted here by the education department next Wednesday and Thursday.

The program will deal with all aspects of hotel management. It is being brought to Vernon through the tourist services consultant branch of the department of education, in conjunction with the travel bureau of the recreation department.

SPARK CAUSES BLAZE

VANCOUVER — A spark from a welder's torch at Rae Signs Thursday caused a $1,000 fire. A spokesman for the firm said the spark ignited insulation, burning fittings and wiring.

SOCRED TO QUIT

SILVER CREEK — James A. Reid, a Social Credit member of the legislature for Salmon Arm since 1952, has announced he will not be a candidate in the next provincial election.

Mr. Reid, 62-year-old farmer and sawmill operator, told a constituency meeting here Wednesday night that "Peer Paynter is his logical successor."

Mr. Paynter, a Social Creditor for 28 years, is acting president of the National Social Credit League and president of the Sicomous Board of Trade.

UNJUSTIFIABLE APPEALS

VANCOUVER — Legislation which would make it mandatory for persons making an appeal on behalf of the blind to have a permit is being sought by the Canadian Council of the Blind, B.C. division. Too many "unjustifiable appeals" are being made on behalf of the blind, said Mrs. W. C. Bending, national president.

SCHOOLS DEFENDED

VANCOUVER — Schools today are challenging the gifted and superior students more than ever before, Dr. Robert F. Sharp, Vancouver schools superintendent, said here Thursday.

Dr. Sharp was commenting on a statement by Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C., who said that Canadian schools are destroying the natural curiosity and imagination of students.

Best Wishes to the Newlyweds!

Margaret, Tony Honeymooning Aboard Yacht

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, sailed westward this afternoon for their honeymoon aboard the Royal yacht Britannia after their wedding in Westminster Abbey amid unforgettable panoply.

They were 47 minutes late arriving at the pier where the Royal barge took them to the Britannia, anchored in the Thames.

The yacht, with her deep blue hull and white superstructure, was a picture as she headed toward the sea at 5.33 p.m. (9.33 a.m., PDT) to a raucous salute of horns, whistles and sirens from other ships in the river.

Their departure climaxed a memorable day in which, with ancient chivalry and religious solemnity, the smiling Princess was married to her commoner sweetheart.

As millions watched, the "prettiest maiden aunt in the Commonwealth," long the most publicized girl in the world, softly exchanged vows with the 30-year-old society photographer, now himself the cynosure of all cameras.

One of the largest gatherings of the Royal Family and associated families of Europe was in historic old Westminster Abbey for an hour-long ceremony summing up all of Britain's yesterdays.

All the panoply of a great ceremonial occasion, for so long a British speciality, was packed into the scene as "Margaret Rose" — responding to the name she spurned as a child — was united "till death do us part" with Antony Charles Robert Armstrong-Jones.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, intoned the words the world had been waiting for, enjoining the couple to live in "perfect love and peace together," as the groom placed on the bride's finger a wedding ring made from the same nugget of gold as was used for rings worn by the Queen and the Queen Mother.

Carnival Mood Prevails

LONDON — and Britain — was in carnival mood for the fairy-tale wedding.

Prime ministers of the Commonwealth suspended deliberations and watched the ceremony from special stalls in the Abbey.

The wedding had everything a beautiful princess in a remarkably simple white organza gown with diamond diadem and long train, carrying a bouquet of white orchids; the tinkling jingle of breastplates as the escort of the household cavalry bobbed down the processional way to the Abbey; excited spectators along the route jumping up and down to catch a sight of the glass coach bearing Margaret and Prince Philip who gave the bride away.

Margaret looked solemn as she stood beside her smiling brother-in-law, her arm tucked under his right arm. The duke, with a large pink carnation in his buttonhole, placed his hand over his chest, thumb tucked under his coat.

There was almost a surfeit of spectacle — the Queen Mother in blue dress and stoled edged with honey-colored mink; the eight little bridesmaids, demure in organza; the crowds lined in Parliament Square, beneath the spiky Gothic columns of the Mother of Parliaments; the zebra-striped awning over the entrance to the Abbey; the Prince of Wales in court dress, with ruffles and kilts, straining forward to watch his aunt walk down the aisle; Princess Anne in a replica of Princess Margaret's first evening dress.

Perfect spring weather blessed the biggest royal occasion since the Coronation.

The Queen Mother bit her lip and wept softly through most of the ceremony.

The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the medieval magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,068 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

It came as she pledged herself to Armstrong-Jones.

"For better for worse," intoned the archbishop.

No response could be heard in the abbey.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual.

Groom Speaks Up Loudly

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before Dr. Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11.45 a.m. 3.45 a.m. (PDT).

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

The bride and groom appeared relaxed and happy as they rode separately through the cheering throngs to the Abbey. Armstrong-Jones received an especially loud cheer upon his arrival.

A fanfare of trumpets blared out as the Princess entered the Abbey and walked down the long nave on a rich blue carpet. Prince Philip whispered to her as they began the long walk to the altar.

26 KILLED, 220 INJURED

Twisters Take Heavy Toll

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP)—Ugly black tornadoes killed 26 persons and injured about 220 in slashing attacks at Oklahoma Thursday night and today.

A twister destroyed 12 houses, two churches and the post office in the small community of Menifee this morning. A woman was killed and 20 persons were hurt.

Torrential rains followed the twisters and hampered rescue efforts. Most of the affected areas were without power and communications.

Eleven victims were counted in this eastern Oklahoma college town and officials feared they would find more bodies under the rubble today. The best estimate of injured, taken to hospitals in several towns, was about 75.

U.S. WANTS 'FULL FACTS'

(See Page 16)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally asked Russia today for the "full facts" behind Soviet Premier Khrushchev's boast that an American aircraft was shot down over Soviet territory on Sunday.

The note asked especially that the United States be informed "of the fate of the pilot" of the aircraft.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today the 1960 civil rights bill keyed to new protection for the voting rights of Negroes.

In a statement Eisenhower called the act "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights" although Congress failed to include some of his recommendations.

The heart of the measure is a new procedure to help Negroes, or other minorities, fight discrimination against them at the ballot box.

WIRE BRIEFS

Dawson Faces Flood

Pearson Hopeful

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Pearson said today that despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's new outburst there are still good prospects of easing world tensions at the summit meeting in Paris. Russia and the West are getting close to some agreement on limiting nuclear tests, Mr. Pearson told a press conference.

They Sat, Stood—And Squatted

City hotel lobbies played to full houses today as Victorians and visitors sat, stood and squatted to watch the marriage of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones on television.

Every seat in a special watching room at the Empress Hotel was occupied and watchers stood shoulder to shoulder to watch the ceremony. Many of the viewers were delegates and wives attending the 15th annual Olympic Logging Conference.

ALWAYS ATTRACTIVE, TODAY BEAUTIFUL

Fairy-Tale Setting For Real Princess

By DINAH KERR

(London Daily Express Reporter)

(Miss Kerr was formerly a reporter on the Victoria Daily Times, where she took her training. She went to London two years ago to the Daily Express staff.)

LONDON—It was a fairy tale setting for a real life princess when London staged the wedding of the year today.

White, crimson and gold banners, with arch after arch of glowing pink roses, shimmered in the hottest sun of the year all the way down the Mall to Buckingham Palace.

Tens of thousands of people jammed the wedding route to Westminster Abbey. Many of them had slept all night in the parks and on sidewalks. But I got a fourth-row place just outside Clarence House after only a four-hour wait.

And then, at exactly 11.15 a.m., the princess came out in a sparkling glass coach.

I saw a gleaming tiara, a flashing smile, a modest V-neckline. Photographers never do justice to her looks. Always she is attractive. Today she was beautiful.

I could see long, tightly-fitting sleeves that came almost to her palms. There was an overwhelming impression of uncompromising plainness of design.

She may have been the most important bride of 1960 but she was certainly one of the most simply dressed.

But the big startler was her hair. It was built up into a beehive effect under her tiara.

Nobody had been seen with such an extreme style before. And I for one would hazard that this creation by her French hairdresser Rene has been influenced by Mr. Armstrong-Jones.

With her was Prince Philip, smiling happily like any body off to a family wedding. But the Captain's Escort of the Household Cavalry—one squadron in front of their coach and one behind—showed that this was no ordinary marriage.

This was the spectacle for which we had waited. And, like any other big state occasion in England, it was superbly stage-managed—if you accept the choice of "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off" as one of the pieces played on the loudspeakers beforehand.

FILM DELAYED AS VULCAN BUCKED WINDS

Films of Princess Margaret's wedding to Antony Armstrong-Jones hit the trans-Canada microwave television network this morning almost 40 minutes later than scheduled by the CBC.

Heavy headwinds over the Atlantic were reported to be the cause for delaying the RAF Vulcan bomber assigned the task of transporting the film across the ocean to the RCAF base at St. Hubert near Montreal.

Originally the CBC had listed the telecast time at 10 Victoria time, then optimistically rescheduled it for 9.30. The wedding telecast actually started at about 10.10.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Prince Edward Island is going to try out daylight saving time this summer.

No Plea to Save Bomarc Made by Canada to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Fleming said today it would be "improper" for the Canadian government to assume that the United States will not carry out its part of the Bomarc agreement.

He was commenting in the Commons on the action of the U.S. House of Representatives Thursday in voting 377 to 3 in favor of virtually eliminating defence appropriations for the anti-aircraft missile. Defence Minister Pearkes, asked by Paul Hellyer (L. Toronto) Trinity whether he still has faith in the missile, said technical information now available indicates that the weapon "can be made functional."

Both ministers turned aside persistent opposition suggestions that Canada has made representations to the U.S. congressmen and senators to have the Bomarc appropriation restored.

Mr. Fleming reminded the Commons that the Bomarc matter now is on its way to the U.S. Senate, where it was hoped the issue would be dealt with "reasonably expeditiously."

Meanwhile, "it would be improper on our part to assume that the United States government will not be in a position to carry out its side of the program."

Industrials In Advance At Toronto

Amid mixed, light trading in the Toronto stock market today. National Steel Car led industrials higher with a gain of 1 1/2 at 17, while Aluminum was up 1/2 at 30 1/2. Among the losers, Canadian Vickers was off two points at 13. Aircraft, airlines and an assortment of speculative issues advanced late today at New York on an otherwise dull and mixed market.

AT TORONTO mines were having a tough day, led down by Giant Yellowknife with a drop of 1/2 at 10 1/2, while Hollinger slipped 1/2 at 22, and Kerr Addison lost 1/2 at 11 1/2. Great Plains put a damper on already-depressed western oils section with a drop of 25 cents at $8.90.

AT NEW YORK Aluminum Ltd., Hudson Bay Mining and Dome Mines were ahead in the Canadian list. Fargo Oil added 3 1/2 on the American exchange, Shawinigan, Canadian mines eased.

AT MONTREAL, the stock exchange was ahead in light turnover today. Fargo Oil added 3 1/2 on the American exchange, Shawinigan, Canadian mines eased.

AT LONDON prices improved on the stock market today. Gilt-edged were slightly higher. Dollar issues reflected Thursday's easier trend on Wall Street, golds drifted lower, coppers declined and oils were quiet and unchanged.

AT VANCOUVER the market was dull with prices off during the forenoon. Peace River Pete moved 5,000 at 35. Vantor traded 1,500 at 35. Cowichan Copper sold 2,500 at 35. Silbak moved 11,500 at 24. Silver Standard traded 3,000 at 22.

He puts the blame strictly on the government. Or more precisely on Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He said he would help the little businessman. He has helped him to cut his throat.

Detailing his claims, Mr. Diefenbaker feels that lack of legislation to curb labor's power and wage demands is the main reason for inflation.

"In steadfastly refusing to bring in legislation which would halt or at least slow down labor, particularly that segment dictated by U.S. leaders, Mr. Diefenbaker leans on the crutch that too much interference—I call it legislation—violates the Bill of Rights."

Mr. Diefenbaker's "Bill of Rights" is not a tinkler's dam if a man doesn't have the right to work at the job of his choice. And with many unions dictated to by their strong American leaders, that is what is happening.

LAUDS U.K. POLICY
Canada—or Diefenbaker—should act as England did to curb inflation, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"England cut down installment buying and hiked interest rates—for private borrowing. Business was let alone. Because of that all business was able to borrow, to increase its production and development and to contribute to the economy. Not in Canada. By hiking the interest rates for business borrowing, Diefenbaker has strangled the small business."

'Curb Installment Buying'

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

If the voice of business experience carries weight, as it properly should, the flavor of opinions of retired banker, semi-retired business man Fred I. Batcheller may interest you.

A visitor to this desk Thursday, Mr. Batcheller said he wanted to express some views on the general economy, the state of government leadership, Canadian unions dominated by American affiliates, credit buying and assorted other matters.

Mr. Batcheller was 25 years a banker, at one time was chairman of the Canadian Manufacturing Association in Alberta and is now semi-retired at Colwood when he isn't in Edmonton supervising a small business run by his two sons.

An avid reader—"I soak up everything that deals with business and politics"—and obviously a thinker, Mr. Batcheller thinks Canada is heading toward totalitarian rule by governments and big business—simply because we don't care or are too indolent to do anything.

He puts the blame strictly on the government. Or more precisely on Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He said he would help the little businessman. He has helped him to cut his throat.

Detailing his claims, Mr. Diefenbaker feels that lack of legislation to curb labor's power and wage demands is the main reason for inflation.

"In steadfastly refusing to bring in legislation which would halt or at least slow down labor, particularly that segment dictated by U.S. leaders, Mr. Diefenbaker leans on the crutch that too much interference—I call it legislation—violates the Bill of Rights."

Mr. Diefenbaker's "Bill of Rights" is not a tinkler's dam if a man doesn't have the right to work at the job of his choice. And with many unions dictated to by their strong American leaders, that is what is happening.

LAUDS U.K. POLICY
Canada—or Diefenbaker—should act as England did to curb inflation, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"England cut down installment buying and hiked interest rates—for private borrowing. Business was let alone. Because of that all business was able to borrow, to increase its production and development and to contribute to the economy. Not in Canada. By hiking the interest rates for business borrowing, Diefenbaker has strangled the small business."

The pendulum could swing the other way for small businesses if, says Mr. Batcheller, the government handled all pension funds.

"If this was done, money would be freed for housing and many other projects. There would be more diversification of money—big corporations could continue to grow and small industry wouldn't be stifled."

Adoption of all these measures, said Mr. Batcheller, would save us from totalitarian rule by governments and big business. If nobody talks about them, "realizes their importance" and seeks their passage, we'll get what we are heading for—"by default."

"The president proved it when he didn't interfere with (Richard) Nixon, his vice-president, on the steel strike. Nixon triggered an inflationary outburst which will last God knows how long when he gave in to the steelworkers and freed the companies into settlement."

"The consequences of that are fearful. Workers are getting higher wages which will only lead to greater installment buying. Small companies which can't afford to meet those wage demands if they are to remain competitive at home and in export markets will fold. It can't happen any other way."

"The big will grow bigger," he sighed, "and the little will become extinct."

Another trend which disturbs Mr. Batcheller is the swing of large insurance companies handling pension funds into mutual funds.

"This is bad for the general economy," he says, "because for the most part the money is going into large corporations who don't really need it. By their very size they can borrow anyway. But this (trend) simply applies the squeeze to smaller companies."

"They already have one strike against them—(steadily increasing wage costs) and they sorely need fresh capital for expansion and growth."

U.K. CABINET DEBATES COMMONWEALTH CRISIS

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan met with his cabinet today to discuss a crisis in the Commonwealth conference here over South Africa's racial policy.

Malayan Premier Tunku Prince Abdul Rahman Thursday dropped a bombshell in the midst of the formal deliberations by releasing a statement that attacked South Africa's external affairs minister, Eric Louw.

Today's full-cabinet meeting, the first since the Commonwealth Conference opened Tuesday, followed private talks by Macmillan, Louw and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan.

Macmillan hurried from Princess Margaret's wedding to attend the luncheon meeting with the two Commonwealth statesmen at 10 Downing Street.

MARGARET, TONY OFF ON HONEYMOON

Thousands Cheer The Newlyweds

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, sailed westward this afternoon for their honeymoon aboard the Royal yacht Britannia after their wedding in Westminster Abbey amid unforgettable panoply.

They were 47 minutes late arriving at the pier where the Royal barge took them to the Britannia, anchored in the Thames.

The yacht, with her deep blue hull and white superstructure, was a picture as she headed toward the sea at 5.33 p.m. (9.33 a.m., PDT) to a raucous salute of horns, whistles and sirens from other ships in the river.

Their departure climaxed a memorable day in which, with ancient chivalry and religious solemnity, the smiling Princess was married to her commoner sweetheart.

As millions watched, the "prettiest maiden aunt in the Commonwealth," long the most publicized girl in the world, softly exchanged vows with the 30-year-old society photographer, now himself the cynosure of all cameras.

One of the largest gatherings of the Royal Family and associated families of Europe was in historic old Westminster Abbey for an hour-long ceremony summing up all of Britain's yesterdays.

All the panoply of a great ceremonial occasion, for so long a British speciality, was packed into the scene as "Margaret Rose" — responding to the name she spurned as a child — was united "till death do us part" with Antony Charles Robert Armstrong-Jones.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, intoned the words the world had been waiting for, enjoining the couple to live in "perfect love and peace together," as the groom placed on the bride's finger a wedding ring made from the same nugget of gold as was used for rings worn by the Queen and the Queen Mother.

Carnival Mood Prevails

London — and Britain — was in carnival mood for the fairy-tale wedding.

Prime ministers of the Commonwealth suspended deliberations and watched the ceremony from special stalls in the Abbey.

The wedding had everything — a beautiful princess in a remarkably simple white organza gown with diamond diamanté and long train, carrying a bouquet of white orchids; the peal of bells, the sonorous swell of organ music, the tinkling jingle of breastplates as the escort of the household cavalry bobbed down the processional way to the Abbey; excited spectators along the route jumping up and down to catch a sight of the glass coach bearing Margaret and Prince Philip who gave the bride away.

Margaret looked solemn as she stood beside her smiling brother-in-law, her arm tucked under his right arm. The duke, with a large pink carnation in his buttonhole, placed his hand over his chest, thumb tucked under his coat.

There was almost a surfeit of spectacle — the Queen Mother in blue dress and stole edged with honey-colored mink; the eight little bridesmaids, demure in organza; the crowds lined in Parliament Square, beneath the spiky Gothic columns of the Mother of Parliaments; the zebra-striped awning over the entrance to the Abbey; the Prince of Wales in court dress, with ruffles and kilt, straining forward to watch his aunt walk down the aisle; Princess Anne in a replica of Princess Margaret's first evening dress.

Perfect spring weather blessed the biggest royal occasion since the Coronation.

The Queen Mother bit her lip and wept softly through most of the ceremony.

The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the medieval magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,068 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

It came as she pledged herself to Armstrong-Jones.

"For better for worse," intoned the archbishop.

No response could be heard in the abbey.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual.

Groom Speaks Up Loudly

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before Dr. Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11.45 a.m. (3.45 a.m. PDT).

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

The bride and groom appeared relaxed and happy as they rode separately through the cheering throngs to the Abbey. Armstrong-Jones received an especially loud cheer upon his arrival.

A fanfare of trumpets blared out as the Princess entered the Abbey and walked down the long nave on a rich blue carpet. Prince Philip whispered to her as they began the long walk to the altar.

Atlas ICBM Destroyed Over Pacific

VANDENBURG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was destroyed in the air over this Pacific Ocean missile range today shortly after it was fired.

The air force said the Atlas rose at 9.46 a.m., PDT, and was between 4,000 and 5,000 feet over the base when the missile range safety officer detected a malfunction. The officer said he had not determined the cause of abortive mission.

One Dead as Car Plunges Off Road

FENDER HARBOR (CP) — One man drowned and another escaped today when their car plunged off a road and down an embankment into 70 feet of water in Garden Lake, about 50 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Police said skin-divers have recovered the body of the drowned man, a visitor from the Prairies. Names of both men are being withheld until relatives are notified.

Vancouver Hardware Workers Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some 600 employees of three hardware companies today went on strike or were locked out.

Twenty-six employees of Fred C. Myers Ltd. walked off the job at 11 a.m. and McLennan, McFeely and Taylor Ltd. and Marshall Wells B.C. Ltd. locked out their union employees at noon.

ALWAYS ATTRACTIVE, TODAY BEAUTIFUL

Fairy-Tale Setting for Real Princess

By DINAH KERR

(London Daily Express Reporter)

(Miss Kerr was formerly a reporter on the Victoria Daily Times, where she took her training. She went to London two years ago to the Daily Express staff.)

LONDON — It was a fairy tale setting for a real life princess when London staged the wedding of the year today.

White, crimson and gold banners, with arch after arch of glowing pink roses, shimmered in the hottest sun of the year all the way down the Mall to Buckingham Palace.

Tens of thousands of people jammed the wedding route to Westminster Abbey. Many of them had slept all night in the parks and on sidewalks. But I got a fourth-row place just outside Clarence House after only a four-hour wait.

And then, at exactly 11.15 a.m., the princess came out in a sparkling glass coach, a modest V-neckline. Photographers never do justice to her looks. Always she is attractive. Today she was beautiful.

I could see long, tightly-fitting sleeves that came almost to her palms. There was an overwhelming impression of uncompromising plainness of design.

She may have been the most important bride of 1960 but she was certainly one of the most simply dressed.

But the big stunner was her hair. It was built up into a beehive effect under her tiara.

Nobody had been seen with such an extreme style before. And for one would hazard that this creation by her French hairdresser Rene has been influenced by Mr. Armstrong-Jones. With her was Prince Philip, smiling happily like anybody off to a family wedding. But the Captain's Escort of the Household Cavalry — one squadron in front of their coach and one behind — showed that this was no ordinary marriage. This was the spectacle for which we had waited. And, like any other big state occasion in England, it was superbly stage-managed — if you except the choice of "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off" as one of the pieces played on the loudspeakers beforehand.

WEDDING FILM WAS DELAYED AS VULCAN BUCKED WINDS

Films of Princess Margaret's RAF Vulcan bomber assigned wedding to Antony Armstrong-Jones hit the trans-Canada microwave television network this morning almost 40 minutes later than scheduled by the CBC.

Heavy headwinds over the scheduled it for 9.30. The wedding telecast actually started the cause for delaying the at about 10.10.

And so... happily ever after...

Mr. Khrushchev's, pretty proud of his ground-air rocket. Hope he don't get any ground-air ambitions.

Settin' tax rates kin be upsettin' too.

No Plea to Save Bomarc Made by Canada to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Fleming said today it would be "improper" for the Canadian government to assume that the United States will not carry out its part of the Bomarc agreement.

He was commenting in the Commons on the action of the U.S. House of Representatives Thursday in voting 377 to 3 in favor of virtually eliminating defence appropriations for the anti-aircraft missile.

Defence Minister Pearkes,

asked by Paul Hellyer (L. Toronto) Trinity whether he still has faith in the missile, said technical information now available indicates that the weapon "can be made functional."

Both ministers turned aside persistent opposition suggestions that Canada has made representations to the U.S. congressmen and senators to have the Bomarc appropriation restored.

Mr. Fleming reminded the Commons that the Bomarc matter now is on its way to the U.S. Senate, where it was hoped the issue would be dealt with "reasonably expeditiously."

Meanwhile, "it would be improper on our part to assume that the United States government will not be in a position to carry out its side of the program."

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today the 1960 civil rights bill keyed to new protection for the voting rights of Negroes.

In a statement Eisenhower called the act "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights" although Congress failed to include some of his recommendations.

The heart of the measure is a new procedure to help Negroes, or other minorities, fight discrimination against them at the ballot box.

Twisters Take Heavy Toll

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP)—Ugly black tornadoes killed 26 persons and injured about 220 in slashing attacks at Oklahoma Thursday night and today.

A twister destroyed 12 houses, two churches and the post office in the small community of Menifee this morning. A woman was killed and 20 persons were hurt.

Torrential rains followed the twisters and hampered rescue efforts. Most of the affected areas were without power and communications.

Eleven victims were counted in this eastern Oklahoma college town and officials feared they would find more bodies under the rubble today. The best estimate of injured, taken to hospitals in several towns, was about 75.

Other tornadoes, all in eastern Oklahoma, also:

Killed five, including four members of one family, and injured 16 in the Moffet-Roland area.

Killed three and injured six near Keota.

Killed two and injured possibly 70 in Sapulpa.

Killed one person in a rural area north of Sallisaw and killed another person at a crossroads community near Checotah.

Killed two and injured 12 south of Bristow.

Injured 13 in the Hoffman community.

Wilburton, a town of 2,000 with another 1,000 students at Eastern A. and M. junior college, was hit the hardest.

CITY HALL GONE

Two blocks of the downtown area were wrecked and the rest of the business section was heavily damaged. The city hall was blown away.

The most concentrated casualty list came from the rural area near Roland.

Killed when a tornado struck their farm home were Mrs. William McGuire and three of her children—a son and two daughters. Six other McGuire children were taken to hospital. The husband and father was away.
